Town and Farm In Wartime

GAS FOR SCHOOL BUS

If school authorities do not promptly return applications for revised certificates of War Necessity, there may be insufficient gasoline for school bus operators in the second quarter of 1943. The district offices of Defense Transportation in Virginia have warned. The minimum necessary mileage for each school bus will be determined on the basis of information contained in these applications.

SOLDIERS BACK TO FARMS

The War Department has announced procedures by which Virginia soldiers, as individuals, may obtain discharges from the army to return to their farms. Soldiers on active duty in the continental U. S., who are 38 years of age and over, may be discharged upon favorable consideration or written applications submitted prior to May 1, 1943. These requests must be accompanied by a letter or statement from local farm agents to the effect that the soldiers will be employed in essential agricultural activities if discharged from the army. Such requests are made by the soldier to his immediate commanding officer. A soldier meeting these requirements will be discharged promptly unless his release will seriously affect the efficiency of his unit.

NO INSPECTION, NO GAS

The ODT reminds Virginia's operators of commercial motor vehicles that the deadline for tire inspection was February 28. So far, less than 25 per cent of such operators have had their tires inspected, and now the State OPA is moving to correct this carelessness on the part of truck operators by ruling that no second-quarter allotments of gas will be given unless a tire inspection certificate is presented. The ODT urges Virginia operators to save themselves unnecessary trouble by having their tires inspected immediately.

ANY TIME, NOW

The Army has taken over the operation of the State's test blackouts, and Virginia has been warned to be on the lookout for unannounced blackouts at any time. The State OCA says that the last blackout test was highly satisfactory, but has been informed by the Army that real raids are very likely to be made on the Atlantic Coast this Spring by Axis planes.

LIVESTOCK OWNERS, PLEASE NOTE

The Food Distribution Administration of the USDA has announced that under provisions of Food Distribution Order No. 27, Virginia livestock owners taking their animals to custom slaughterhouses are now required to register with local USDA war boards. Under the terms of the order, the person who owns the livestock at the time of slaughter is considered the slaughterer regardless of whether it is done by someone else for him. Thus, a person who slaughters for hire or on a custom basis, is not affected by the order except as the order affects the person for whom he slaughters.

FARM MACHINERY

The government freeze on the last item of farm machinery needed for food crop production has now been lifted, according to the U. S. Department of Agriculture. Distribution directives for all having and harvesting machinery are expected to be issued to manufacturers before April 15. Approximately 75 per cent of all types of rationed farm machinery, which was frozen November 1, 1942, has now been freed for distribution and local rationing through county war boards.

RECAPED TRACTOR TIRES

Farm tractor and implement tires will be recapped hereafter only with a material made most entirely of reclaimed rubber, and replacements will not be issued for tires that are recappable. State rationing officers of the OPA have announced.

VICTORY CORPS WILL BUY JEEP

Treasury Department Announces Campaign in Which Schools Will Participate

The Treasury Department has announced a School-of-War-Jeep Campaign. It has set as its goal 1,000 jeeps and the quota for Virginia is 174.

Ocean City High School, through its Victory Corps has undertaken the sales of stamps and bonds in order to purchase the price of a jeep.

Special Certificates

A special certificate signed by the Secretary of the Treasury will be awarded in each school which successfully completes a campaign to pay for one or more jeeps. This engraved certificate will bear a picture of a jeep in action and the name of the school to which it is awarded. The price of a jeep is $900.00. The school plans to sell enough stamps and bonds to purchase one or more jeeps.

Recently, Victory Corps was organized at Oceana. The corps assists in coordinating extra-class activities which helps in the school and community. The two objectives of the Victory Corps are: 1. the training of youth for that war service that

ROAD REVENUE IS CURTAILED

State Highway Department on Wartime Basis; Little Material Available

Highway revenues have fallen off $30,000 per day, available manpower has been reduced fifty per cent during the past year, and the winter just past hit the highways of the State the blow of any in seven years. State Highway Commissioner James A. Anderson, announced this week upon his return from a survey of road conditions throughout the State.

General Anderson further announced that, beginning with this week, meetings will be held by District and Resident Engineers in each of the eight Construction Districts, to consider ways and means of meeting the highway emergency under existing conditions and with available labor and equipment.

Little Asphalt Available

He called attention to the fact that while in a normal year 25,000,000 gallons of tar and asphalt are used in the spring road maintenance, this year there is only about nine million gallons available for surface treating and patching, while last year 15 million gallons could be obtained. Where 2,500 miles of road surface is usually treated and patched, this spring only approximately 900 miles 900 miles can be worked on and this means that the worst spots will have to be attended to first and what material is left will be made to go as far as possible. KELLAM HEADS 2ND WAR LOAN COUNTY DRIVE

Month of April Set Aside by Treasury Department for Raising $13 Billions

LOCAL GROUP TO MEET

Cruiser to Be Named "Norfolk" at Stake in Drive

P. E. Kellam will serve as chairman of the Princess Anne War Finance Committee for the Second War Loan Campaign to be held during the month of April. It was announced this week by John S. Alfriend, president of the National Bank of Commerce, chairman of the Tidewater area. The purpose of the drive is to secure a national goal of $13 billions, and will be handled similarly to the first loan campaign, which was 30 per cent oversubscribed in January.

Serving with Mr. Kellam on the local committee will be Frank S. Cox, superintendent of schools; Claiborne R. Bryant, of the National Bank of Commerce; Russell Hatchett, town clerk and treasurer; Don Seiwel, of the Chamber of Commerce; R. B. Taylor, W. Peyton May, Col. H. R. Rice and W. P. Crockett. Other names will be added to the committee in the near future.

Objectives of the drive will be outlined at a meeting of the committee to be held on Sunday night, at 8:00 o'clock at the Town Hall. Of particular interest will be a discussion of the part which the county and town may play in contributing their bond purchases to the fund, now being sought to defray the cost of construction of the Cruiser "Norfolk."

All sales in the Norfolk area of the new government bond issues, together with "E," "F" and "G" war bonds, will count in the campaign to name the cruiser, and since the drive is to be a community effort, it should stimulate the sales of the securities.

Considerable interest has been expressed locally in the campaign to name the cruiser after the City of Norfolk, and the details as to how local residents may participate will be announced following Sunday's meeting. To achieve success, the drive must total $37,000,000, generally regarded as a substantial goal for this area to shoot at, but held possible if all will contribute their bit.

In addition to individual subscriptions, banks, insurance companies and similar agencies are expected to make substantial purchases during the limits of the drive.

SCHOOL BOARD GETS U. S. AID

Federal Works Administration Allocates $17,000 to County for School Purposes

Kenneth Markwell, FWA regional director in Richmond, was advised this week by Major General Philip B. Fleming, Federal Works Administration, that the President has approved a Federal contribution of $17,000 to the school board of Princess Anne County, to aid in the maintenance and operation of school facilities during the current year, which ends June 30.

The Federal contribution will be used to help pay teachers' salaries and other operating costs for schools in Princess Anne County, outside of Virginia Beach. Funds to be supplied by the county school board amount to $173,656.

The number of pupils enrolled in the Princess Anne County schools during the past year has increased as a result of the expansion of military and industrial activities in the vicinity of Virginia Beach. Mr. Markwell said, and the county school board cannot meet the additional cost of operation without Federal assistance.

Helping the Family Food Supply

Here's a FAMILY FOOD SUPPLY that you can have right in your own back yard. This young lady started last year with one old setting hen and now has a dozen hens laying from 10 to 50 eggs a week. A "back yard food supply" is insurance that your family will be well fed.

Advice On Victory Gardens Is Given to Urban Farmers

12,000,000 City Plots Expected to Be Planted This Year in Face of Growing Food Shortage; Consideration of Soil and Sun Necessary

The old saying that "an Army marches on its stomach" holds as true for the great civilian army in this total war.

Because of the unprecedented demands for food supplies from the armed forces and our allies, the Victory Garden has to be not only a symbol of active civilian participation in the war, but a vital necessity to assure Americans a healthful diet.

18,000,000 Gardens

Every town, city and suburban family with a sufficient plot of open sunny and fertile ground, and with a determination to carry through to the last head of late cabbage is due to have a garden this year. The Department of Agriculture has estimated that there should be more than six million farm gardens and more than twelve million urban and suburban gardens this year.

Unfortunately, many a Virginia patriot with a hoe will not find it so easy to locate a good garden spot. Farmers will have little difficulty, but for urban gardeners, and especially for those

FARMERS WILL SUPPORT DRIVE

Campaign to Collect Scrap in Rural Areas to Continue Throughout This Month

Farm leaders, rural leaders and businessmen in the agricultural field will actively support the drive of the Virginia Rural Press Scrap Committee to collect 87,500 tons of scrap from Virginia farms, M. C. Gimbert, local salvage chairman, said this week.

Mr. Gimbert said that dates for the intensified campaign in this county would be announced in the near future. The statewide campaign is to run from April 1 to June 1, but each section will set special dates when it is felt local farmers can give close attention to searching their farms for the vitally needed scrap to send back to the war plants to provide the implements of war for the men at the front.

Dealers to Cooperate

Implement dealers and manufacturers' representatives will take an active part in the campaign, according to Chairman Robert A. Wilson, of Richmond, who said that one manufacturer's representative alone has representatives in 75 of the State's 100 counties, and posters and descriptive literature will be sent to all of these men. Local heads of home demonstration clubs, county farm bureaus, and granges will receive letters from their State leaders, telling how they can best support the campaign, and rural ministers have also signified their willingness to take an active part in the campaign.

SCHOOLS OFFER INSTRUCTION IN BEST METHODS TO GARDENERS

Courses in Growing Home Vegetables to Begin This Week at Oceana, Bayside

OTHER CLASSES WILL BE STARTED IF REQUESTED

W. W. Parker, of Experiment Station, to Supervise Local Course of Study

Two series of classes of instruction for Victory Gardeners will get underway early next week in Princess Anne County, and others will follow as fast as study groups can be arranged. S. B. Myers, agricultural teacher at the Oceana High School, announced yesterday. The program is sponsored jointly by the Federal Department of Agriculture and the Federal and State Departments of Education.

Beginning on Monday night, April 5, at 7:30 o'clock and continuing for ten periods of two hours each, a course will be given at the Bayside School under the direction of W. W. Parker, vegetable research consultant of the Virginia Truck Experiment Station. Mr. Parker also will conduct a similar course at the Oceana High School, beginning Tuesday night. If other sections of the county desire such classes, Mr. Myers reported, they can be arranged if ten or more persons will agree to attend.

Proper Planting Methods

During the year boys and girls in the local schools have been giving intensive study to the production of food, especially the growing of vegetables. The idea of the present classes is to do the same thing for adult gardeners. Where small groups of interested persons can be assembled, according to Mr. Myers, capable and qualified leaders will be secured to meet with these groups and give assistance in making plans for the production of vegetables, eggs, etc.

When vegetables and other produce are ready for conservation, similar groups will be formed to study best methods of canning, drying, storing, etc. Such groups will be supervised by high school home economics teachers.

General Information

General information regarding conduct of study groups to help make plans for the needed food for home use was outlined as follows:

1. These groups will be taught (Continued on page four)

Auxiliary Circles To Meet Tuesday

The Bishop Brown and Bishop Tucker Circles of the Galilee Women's Auxiliary will meet next Tuesday morning at 11 o'clock at the Church for the annual United Thank Offering. Preceding the meeting, at 10 o'clock, Corporate Communion will be held.

On Wednesday, April 28, the district meeting of the Episcopal auxiliaries will be held in Norfolk at the Church of the Good Shepherd, beginning at 10 o'clock. Persons planning to attend have been asked to notify to circle presidents in order that luncheon preparations may be made.

The last mission study class will meet this morning at the Trafton-Chalfonte Hotel, with Mrs. Charles Field as the instructor. The session will convene at 10 o'clock.

Army-Navy Contribute

Of the $12,300 goal sought by the American Red Cross in Princess Anne County, $3,000 in contributions were received from the naval establishments located here and $3,306 from Fort Story and Camp Pendleton. Approximately half of the funds sought came from men in uniform and the civilian employees in the camps and Stations.

"THE VOICE of a majority, swaying the course of government does not insure good government except it be the voice of a well-informed and well-intentioned people."

FINGER ON LIPS

The government is launching an intensive campaign to make people more conscious of the need to guard well their tongues lest information of value to the enemy unwittingly escapes their lips.

Everybody knows, of course, that we should never divulge to strangers any military information that we happen to possess, but some of us, unfortunately, do not seem to realize that bits of conversation that may seem to us trivial and unimportant can be pieced together, with other bits from other sources, to form a pattern of military plans or commitments. Thus a few idle words spoken to friend and innocent passed along by him to others may spell disaster and death to men of our fighting forces.

Government agencies have done splendid work in breaking up nests of enemy agents, which makes the enemy dependent all the more on information gathered from thoughtless remarks dropped by persons who have no idea that they are giving out military information, and certainly no desire to aid the enemies of their country. The safest plan, we are told, is to talk about nothing we hear and nothing we see that has even a remote bearing on military movements or supply. This does not apply, of course, to matters broadcast by radio or printed in newspapers, which may be freely discussed. But at a girl's casual remark that "Dad worked late last night finishing a rush job" in a war factory, might furnish the tip that a convoy was on the eve of sailing.

The government will have the fullest cooperation of press and radio in making the people more conscious of their responsibility to prevent the leaking of military information by thoughtless conversation.

The State Office of Civilian Defense and all local defense councils in Virginia will have an important part in the campaign. Civilian Defense speakers' bureaus throughout the state will sound the note of caution. No means will be overlooked to make Virginians realize that they owe it to their government, and to their fighting men, to guard well their tongues.

SHARING OR SHORTAGE

There are two subjects uppermost in our minds today—the fortunes of war and the "misfortunes" of rationing. Of the two except in those homes who have felt the cold hand of the casualty list, the latter is closer home.

Whether rationing is sharing or shortage depends upon how we as individuals take it. It is up to each and every one of us to make it either a part of our war effort or an unendurable hardship. No one can shirk his or her decision.

We ration foods, gas, fuel oil and other commodities for one reason and one reason alone—so that there may be no unfairness, no inequality of treatment. Rationing is a practical application of the democratic ideal. It is a proof that this ideal is not merely a flowery phrasing of the thoughts of the spirit, but a definite guide to a way of life. Rationing will work only if we all work together. If we try to get extra favors for ourselves, buy from the black market, hoard beyond our needs, we are defeating ourselves. We are suppling the strength of the nation. We are giving comfort and aid to the enemy who seeks to undermine our unity. We are denying the democracy for which our fathers fought and died and we are betraying those brave lads who are giving their lives on land, on sea and in the air.

Of course, rationing means shortages. It means a restricted way of life. The range of our activities are curtailed, but not our activities—there is more than ever for us to do. It means we will spend more time preparing less food, but we still are the best fed nation in the world. We will buy less, but we will save more. And the price of freedom is never high when compared with the cost of slavery!

Rationing means sharing and shortages—but let us carry this into the realm of thought and speech. Let us go short on hate, suspicions and dissension. Let us go short on careless talk about our neighbors, not condemning them wholesale because of class, creed or color. Let us share our faith and trust with them. Knowing that most of them are trying to do what we are trying to do—the best each of us can. Let us share our possessions and go short on our prejudices.

Let us calmly face the fact that there will be great strain upon us, great temptation to complain, great cause to resent what is not fully understood. Let us go short in speech and long, unrationed good will toward all our fellow Americans.

We have a slogan which applies to rationing as it does to democracy itself. "United we stand, divided we fall." Let's prove that we are united in all things in bad times as in good, that what we have we share alike.

SCRAP METAL IS NEEDED

Last Fall when the War Production Board called upon the nation to rummage its closets, ransack its attics, search its garages and canvass its fields for scrap metal, it responded magnificently, so magnificently in fact that our steel mills kept operating all winter and the flow of arms and ammunition to our soldiers never stopped.

But the god of war demands heavy and unending tribute, and today once more we need scrap metal if we are to provide the tools for our men at the battlefronts. According to figures of the War Production Board, one of the richest sources of scrap metal is the average American farm, and Chairman Donald M. Nelson of WPB has asked our farmers to aid in the collection of not fewer than 3 million tons of scrap before July 1. That is not a large figure. It is only one thousand pounds from each farm. An old, rusting tank, a few small pieces of broken machinery, an old automobile or truck chassis could easily exceed 1,000 pounds.

On your farm, don't you have a thousand pounds of useless old metal that would make the shells and bombs that have sunk hundreds of Japanese ships and Germans are now driving the Germans from Africa? Won't you bring it to town the next time you come in the truck or wagon? Virginia wants to raise 87,500 tons of scrap from the farms by July 1, so bring all you have, and bring it as soon as you can.

SOME DIFFERENCE

It is one thing for government to broaden individual opportunity and provide a maximum of care for the needy.

It is quite a different thing to build up government where it dictates to the individual in the commonest affairs of life. The first type of government is what our boys are fighting to preserve. The second type is what they think they are fighting to prevent coming to America.

ON THE FARM FRONT

Only the farmer seems really to understand how critical the food situation is and that is why he feels he is doing the patriotic thing when he takes a fighting stand through organizations on the vital question of farm labor, supplies, prices and production. It is a part of the big job of winning the war and he knows it. Not only the farmers but the whole nation may thank God for the farm organizations, when this war is over.

FARM ASSURED OF AMPLE GAS

Adequate Allotments for All Trucks Needs Promised by Director Eastman of ODT

Farmers may schedule their 1943 crops with the assurance that they will be able to obtain enough gasoline for all necessary truck operations, local fuel supplies permitting, Joseph B. Eastman, Director of the Office of Defense Transportation, stated this week.

"The ODT's mileage control program for commercial motor vehicles is completely flexible," Mr. Eastman said. "Farmers may request adjustment of their Certificates of War Necessity whenever conditions warrant."

Adjustments Possible

Such requests for gasoline, load or mileage adjustment should be made to the Farm Transportation Committees of the USDA County War Boards. These committees are composed of the farmers' neighbors and their recommendations will be accepted by the ODT district office making the adjustment.

If a farmer's allotment is still insufficient after an adjustment, he may appeal through his Farm Transportation Committee to his ODT District Office, or he may appeal directly to the ODT District Office. A final appeal can be made to his ODT Regional Manager. Emergency gasoline rationing may be obtained from local War Price and Ration Boards while the requests for adjustment or appeals are being considered.

"Hence," Mr. Eastman said, "no farmer need restrict his 1943 acreage because the present gasoline or mileage allotments on his Certificate of War Necessity are insufficient for an expansion of his operations."

Few New Trucks

At the same time, Mr. Eastman pointed out, the increased necessity for farmers to carefully husband their present trucks and tires and to eliminate all waste mileage from their truck operations.

"There are very few new trucks and trailers left in the civilian stockpile," Mr. Eastman said.

"The rubber situation is equally critical and imposes similar responsibilities upon all truck operators to conserve their tires and reduce to the minimum the number of miles which they operate, empty or partially loaded," he emphasized.

The ODT recently moved to make it unnecessary for farmers to visit their ration boards in person to pick up quarterly "T" rations, Mr. Eastman pointed out.

Under a procedure announced February 24, all truck operators holding single unit Certificates of War Necessity will have their third and fourth quarter gasoline ration coupons mailed to them, provided they bring their Certificates to their local rationing board once before July 1, 1943, for recording of the correct gallonage for these two quarters.

Florida farm families grew about twice as many gardens in 1942 as they did in 1941.

Reducing sizes and stock items of groceries and variety bars will save about 80,000 tons of wood pulp and use of 4,000 freight cars in 1943.

DRIVE AGAINST BLACK MARKETS

A total of 783 court actions against 1,025 individual defendants have been begun in the first two months of OPA's intensive drive to stamp out black markets in meat. Of the total, 149 were criminal actions against 246 defendants, and 634 were civil actions against 779 defendants. They charge wholesalers, packers and retailers with delivering meat for civilian use in excess of permitted quotas or selling at a higher rate than ceiling prices, or both.

RESTRICTIONS ON SEED POTATOES

Seed potatoes cannot be sold by retail stores for any purpose other than planting. Virginia State OPA has announced. OPA has also ruled that seed potatoes must be tagged as such in sales at retail and cannot be sold by retailers in quantities of less than 50 pounds. Similar steps were taken by OPA March 18, 1943, at the county shipper and other distributor levels. The amendment became effective March 25, and is expected to help curb the potato black markets.

"ARE WE BUSY?
...AND HOW!"

In good old American, this gentleman of the rails "said a mouthful".

The railroads are busier than at any time in the history of rail transportation.

Take the Norfolk and Western, for example. In 1942 this railroad handled more traffic—more coal, more general freight, and more passengers—than ever before... more than in 1918 of World War I and in the boom year of 1929.

Not boastfully, but with real pride, we are proud to report that freight traffic on the Norfolk and Western—measured in ton-miles per mile of road—is now greater than for any comparable railroad in the United States. Of course, there are larger railroads, both in mileage and in business handled, but for its size the Norfolk and Western is the busiest.

The N. & W. is meeting the tremendously increased wartime traffic load because it is utilizing to the fullest every single unit of equipment it owns; because of the all-out, loyal effort of its employees; and because it has the close cooperation of shippers, travelers, and military authorities.

Yes, sir! The Norfolk and Western Railway and the Norfolk and Western Family are busy. And they are going to stay busy—keeping the trains rolling day and night, moving men and munitions, equipment and supplies that are building the military machine that will smash the murderous enemies of the United Nations to their knees in unconditional surrender.

In 1942, Norfolk and Western trains rolled up nearly 19 billion ton-miles of freight traffic, 54 per cent more than in 1918 of World War I and 9.1 per cent more than in 1941. In 1942, N. & W. freight cars were loaded 2.7 tons heavier and traveled 8.3 per cent more miles per day than in 1941.

In 1942, the Norfolk and Western hauled nearly 54,000,000 tons of bituminous coal (about one-tenth of all the bituminous coal mined in America), 95 per cent more than in 1913 and about 10 per cent more than in 1941. Bituminous coal is feeding the Fires of Freedom.

In 1942, Norfolk and Western passenger trains handled 475,242,000 passenger miles of traffic—an increase of 111.58 per cent over 1941. With no new dining cars available, the N. & W. served 181 per cent more meals than in 1941.

In 1942, mechanical forces in the Norfolk and Western's busy shops rebuilt a total of 4,734 all-steel coal cars, built 17 new locomotives, made heavy repairs to 43 locomotives for other railroads, and completed 33 orders of vital war equipment for war industries, and the U.S. Army and Navy—all in addition to maintaining its equipment at a high standard.

KEEPING ALERT POSTER THEME

Traffic Accidents Most Numerous in Rainy Weather. TAA Officer Advises

Extra alertness is required of pedestrians during rainy weather to avoid being involved in a traffic accident, John B. Dev, Vice President of Tidewater Automobile Association, said in announcing distribution to schools of Tidewater Virginia of the April AAA School Safety Poster—"He's Extra Alert When It's Raining, Are You?"

"In one out of every four fatal accidents last year involving motorists and pedestrians the weather was cloudy, foggy, rainy or snowy," Mr. Dev said in urging those about during rainy weather: (1) to hold umbrellas high, (2) to be extra careful when crossing streets at corners, (3) to make sure that there are no fast approaching cars or turning cars, (4) to avoid stepping from between parked cars into the path of a driver who cannot stop his car quickly without skidding on the wet pavement.

"The colorful poster and accompanying Traffic Safety Lesson suggestions for teachers are part of this year's popular AAA Victory Heroes series which illustrates wartime safety practices of Army and Navy personnel," Mr. Dev added. "This poster picture a Signal Corps motorcycle dispatch rider being extra alert in the rain as he passes a convoy of Army trucks. Need for children to look both ways for traffic on streets and roads, and hold umbrellas high to see approaching and turning cars are also illustrated. Distribution of this material is a part of the civic safety program of the Tidewater Automobile Association."

GARDENS

(Continued from page one) how deep the topsoil is. As a rule, where topsoil is eight or more inches thick, there also is fertility. (Under the topsoil is the lighter-colored subsoil, easily recognized.)

5. Is water available? A handy water supply is not essential, but some forms of irrigation is helpful in dry spells. And you will need a little water in setting out tomato and other plants.

6. Is the garden the right size? The danger lies not in having a garden too small, but, for the novice especially, in having one too large. It takes hard work to do a proper job of gardening. If you start a garden that outgrows your ambition, you will waste seed, fertilizer, and effort—and you might even waste some food! If you have good soil and do a good job, you can grow a lot of food on just a few hundred feet.

And now, if you have found your garden spot, how do you answer this question?

7. Am I going to carry on in spite of bugs and heat and drought?

FARMERS WILL

(Continued from page 1) In addition to the support of the rural press, radio stations in Virginia will run special programs and announcements about the drive. C. H. Luebbert, Executive Secretary of the State Salvage Committee and a member of the Rural Press Scrap Committee, has announced that in January Virginia stood 35th among the states in the amount of scrap shipped back to the mills, and emphasized that the rural scrap drive is motivated by a vital need for the material.

Quota Anticipated
Virginia has never yet failed on my appeal made to its citizens to support the war effort," Mr. Luebbert said, "and we must not fail on the rural scrap drive."

THE OLD JUDGE SAYS...

"How do you feel about this idea of stopping 'em from selling liquor anywhere near army camps, Judge?"
"I was just talking about that with Will down at the barber shop about ten minutes ago. Tell you what I told him, Ned. I say it's up to the Army to decide. Why should they walk in and tell the Army how to do its job

...any more than I should tell you how to go about putting out a fire? And here's something that strikes me funny. All this worrying seems to be about the boys' conduct around the camps here in this country. You never hear a word of worrying about them drinking when they go abroad. Kind of queer, isn't it, Ned?"

The Salzedo-Leroy-Scholz Ensemble will appear in the Blair Junior High School Auditorium on Thursday night, at 8:15 o'clock, under the sponsorship of the William and Mary Concert Series, the last in the current season.

Diversity is the keynote of the concerts given by Carlos Salzedo, Marjorie Call Salzedo, Rene Leroy and Janos Scholz. The programs range from the music of the 18th century masters to the music of the most widely-discussed contemporary composers. They include compositions for such unconventional and intriguing instrumental combinations as two harps, flute and cello; flute and cello; flute and piano; two harps; harp and piano; cello and piano; flute and harp; cello and harp, and harp solo. They are designed to please the layman and, at the same time, to stimulate the musician.

OUR CARELESSNESS
Their Secret Weapon

PREVENT FOREST FIRES

1. Never burn brush or slash in windy weather.
2. Do not burn until after 4 o'clock in the afternoon, (after 4 P. M. the air is damper and the wind generally dies down.)
3. Take a width or fire line, free from grass, logs, leaves or sticks, entirely around the area to be burned.
4. Burn against the wind. Burn down hill.
5. Have sufficient help and tools to immediately control fire if it should escape.
6. Before leaving the fire pour water on it and cover with damp soil. Be sure it is out—DEAD OUT.
7. Carefully inspect the burned area next morning.
8. Complete all necessary burning during the winter months of January and February, when there is less danger of fire escaping.
9. When fires burn in broom sedge, nitrogen is lost—the very ingredient you pay for in fertilizer.
10. Fires in broom sedge destroy organic matter—a substance most of our soils need—PLOW BROOM SEDGE UNDER.
11. Fires—even light fires—destroy and injure the small forest trees; heavy fires kill large timber, burn houses, barns and live stock.
12. Fires in the spring time destroys pests, eggs, and young of the quail, turkey, rabbits and other game birds and animals.

4-H'ERS ENLIST
IN WAR DRIVE

Safety Activity Support
Promised by State Groups;
Awards to Local Winners

Virginia's 4-H Club members are now being enlisted in "The National 4-H Safety Activity" to wage a concerted drive to make rural America safety-conscious. As there are roughly 1 1/2 million 4-H'ers throughout the United States, the drive promises to be the most comprehensive an intensive rural-safety campaign ever conducted in this country.

The chief objective of this nationwide campaign will be to reduce the appalling annual loss of manpower resulting from preventable accidents, and of fire, due to carelessness, on farms and rural communities. The activity, in which 4-H participants with outstanding records of safety achievements will receive awards, will be conducted in conjunction with other highly noteworthy wartime jobs of production and conservation under the direction of the U. S. Department of Agriculture, State Agricultural Colleges, and county extension agents.

The awards include medals of honor to county winners, and a special plaque to the top ranking county in each state; a $100 War Savings Bond to the highest rating individual in each state, and trips to the National 4-H Club Congress in Chicago, as well as $200 college scholarships, to the national winners.

4-H Club members will strive to cut down the tremendous annual toll of 18,500 deaths and 1,500,000 injured in the farm field, by conducting actual farm and home surveys, and making demonstrations, talks, and exhibits. These rural youth are well qualified for the task, as they have conducted individual campaigns to safeguard their own homes, with excellent results.

Theater Prevues

Friday and Saturday, April 2nd and 3rd, will be the last two days for "RANDOM HARVEST" which has been showing each day at the Bayne Theatre since Tuesday. Greer Garson and Ronald Coleman in the title roles in their outstanding production of the year.

Sunday, Monday and Tuesday George Murphy, Ann Shirley, Carol Landis and Dennis Day are co-starred in "THE POWERS GIRL." There is laughter and beauty and comedy with songs galore.

Alan Ladd, the killer who was death-on-rats in "THIS GUN FOR HIRE," and "THE GLASS KEY" now is seen in his first starring role. "He is too hot for a girl to fool with, and too tough for a mob to break." So say the prevues. The story concerns the adventures of an American gangster who meets up with some of Hitler's mobsters, boys of the submarine brigade, and discovers that the good old U. S. A. is a swell country to fight for, after all.

"WRECKING CREW," starring Richard Arlen and Chester Morris, will open at the Roland Theatre on Friday and Saturday. "WILD HORSE RUSTLERS" will be the added attraction.

Sunday and Monday there will be another double feature, "BOSTON BLACKIE GOES HOLLYWOOD," with Chester Morris and Constance Worth in the leading roles and "SADDLES AND SAGE BRUSH."

Allan Lane and Lita Conway will be co-starred in "YUKON PATROL," with the added feature attraction, "CHEYENNE ROUNDUP" on Tuesday, Wednesday and Thursday.

ROAD REVENUE

the government needs asphalt, tar and like bituminous materials for fuel, airport construction and transportation, roads must wait.

From the meetings of the District Engineers will come plans for making a depleted road force do the work of twice as many and of making available materials go twice as far. District Engineers are now making a study of the possibility of using convict labor for maintenance work in areas where labor is practically unavailable at the prevailing highway wage rate. The worst roads in each District will be given first attention, but it is estimated even at best it will be late in the season before some roads can be put back into normal condition.

Tidewater Hard Hit

General Anderson has suggested that any and all county residents who are having trouble with their roads to such an extent that they are in urgent need of help, get in touch with their resident engineer prior to the District meetings. This will be of great assistance to the engineer presenting a true picture of conditions in his section.

General Anderson reported that heavy slides in the Southwest, as a result of freezing and thawing, have caused great damage. The Hampton Roads area, with its intensified war activities and lack of highway labor, is probably the hardest hit section of the State, he said, although no section is free from the need of much maintenance work.

A recent survey showed 163 varieties of vegetables growing on Negro farms in Georgia.

Town and Farm In Wartime

OVER-AGE BUT NOT UNWANTED

As of March 31 the War Department stopped the discharging of men over 38 years old—but hereafter the 38's will be transferred to an inactive status in the enlisted Reserve Corps subject to the following conditions:

A. The man must request transfer to an inactive status to enter agricultural or an essential industry, and he must accomplish his request by a statement from the War Power Commission to the effect that his release is desired.

B. The man will be called to active duty upon request of the War Manpower Commission.

THE FATHER'S BRIGADE
State headquarters of Selective Service has said that the time is rapidly approaching when the drafting of fathers will be necessary. This is how Selective Service says dependency deferred registrants probably will be reclassified:

(1) Married men not entitled to occupational deferment (now 3-A)—1-A.

(2) Married men essential in present civilian jobs (now 3-A or 3-B)—2-A.

(3) Married men essential to war production (now 3-B)—2-B.

(4) Married men essential in agriculture (now 3-C)—2-C.

It seems pretty definite that even with the reclassification men in 2-B and 2-C classes will have what is virtually duration deferment unless they can be replaced.

MEATS AND THE BLACK MARKET

Now that standardized prices for pork are in effect, Virginia shoppers not only know exactly how many stamps they will have to pay for each cut, but they know exactly what they will have to pay for it. This is only the beginning. OPA says, for similar maximum prices at retail will be placed on beef, veal, lamb and mutton by the middle of the month. In the meantime, maximum prices for veal at packer and wholesale levels have already been established. The State OPA says that, standardizing the prices of meat will deal a major blow at the black markets which are trying to undermine the Government's anti-inflation program. Farmers in the State have been warned to request to see the license of any prospective buyers who offer prices for their livestock at rates above the ceiling prices. These seemingly generous gentlemen may be black market operators.

CEILINGS ON CORN

Permanent maximum prices on corn America's top-ranking farm crop is at point of rise and value have been fixed by OPA. The ceilings apply from the time the corn leaves the farmer's hand until it is sold by retail dealers. Recognizing seasonal price variations and carrying charges, the new OPA order sets peak prices for all varieties and types of corn sold by farmers, truckers, local elevator and terminal market operators and retail dealers. The typical peak under the new maximum price regulation No. 346—(corn)—is $1.02 per 56-pound bushel of No. 2 yellow corn at Chicago—key point in the country's grain exchange and marketing set-up.

WAKE UP AND LIVE

While some sluggards welcomed the end of the alarm clock, which was an early war casualty, many workers found themselves in a bad spot without one. Now, however, alarm clocks styled for "war time" will be on the market in Virginia by April 1. They will be spring-wound to save critical materials, and enough of them will be available to take care of civilian needs, for the alarm clock has been found to be an important tool of production for the war worker and the farmer.

Farm Agents Offer Advice To Local Victory Gardeners

Any campaign must be mapped according to plan, and Victory Gardens, which are important campaigns on the home front, must especially be planned for the utmost use and yield.

The best way for Virginia Victory Gardeners to start their private campaign to provide the food that is necessary to victory is to sketch out the boundaries of their garden spot approximately to scale and sketch in so many feet of row for beans, tomatoes, and all other vegetables that will be grown.

Suggestions Available

But, and this is an important but, before the gardener makes his plan he should ask his Victory Garden Committee on his home or farm demonstration agent for printed suggestions (based on recommendations of gardening specialists of the Virginia Agricultural Extension Division.) Such suggestions will tell him about varieties that do best in Virginia, how much seed he will need for 25 or 100 feet of row, when to plant and how to space plantings.

There is more to the garden plan, however, than the use of space and the seed order, and it will be the horse sense for the

5TH WORKROOM OPENED HERE

Red Cross Asks for Volunteers in East Ocean View to Assist on Production

Mrs. K. C. Johnson, chairman of surgical dressings for the Princess Anne Chapter of the American Red Cross, announces the opening of another surgical dressings room in the county at Third Street and Shore Drive, at East Ocean View. This room will be under the supervision of Mrs. Everett K. Wilson, chairman of East Ocean View for the Princess Anne Chapter, and it was formally opened Tuesday, at ten o'clock. It will be opened on Tuesdays, Wednesdays and Thursdays from ten o'clock until three o'clock.

Mrs. Johnson announces that there are four other rooms in the county and that they are all in need of volunteers to fill the huge quota of surgical dressings sent to this chapter by the American Red Cross in cooperation with the Army and Navy.

Locations of Rooms

These rooms are as follows: In the Officer's Club at Port Story where the wives of officers and men attached to the military establishments in the neighborhood, under the chairmanship of Mrs. E. G. Mulling; gather to make dressings. This room is open three days a week and many women work here and many dressings are completed here.

The room at headquarters on Atlantic Avenue, at Virginia Beach, is under the chairmanship of Mrs. Charles Allen. This room is open from Monday or Tuesday, through Tuesday at ten to four—the same hour Wednesday, Thursdays and Fridays—and again on Saturday morning from ten to one for high school girls and volunteers.

Civic League Cooperates

The third room is at Marr's Dairy and is a part of the Red Cross work of the Thomas Thelie League under the supervision of Mrs. DeKoven King. This room is open under the chairmanship of Mrs. J. J. Kindell and is open Mondays through Thursdays from eleven o'clock till three. Volunteers will be welcomed here.

The fourth room is in the Red Cross Center at the Norfolk City Water Works and is open from ten to four Mondays through Thursdays. Mrs. Rufus Parks and Mrs. J. W. Gregory, Jr., are chairmen of this room and will welcome volunteers.

gardener to consider such questions as these:

Questions Answered

1. Can I add some humus? Barnyard manure is the desirable thing, but only farm gardens are likely to get any. Leaf-mold and compost are next best. A bushel to 25 square feet (20 tons to the acre) is a suitable amount. Experienced gardeners grow some humus by planting cover crops in the fall and turning them under in the spring.

2. How much fertilizer will I need? A "Victory Garden fertilizer," analyzing 3-8-7, is the only complete fertilizer allowed by the War Production Board. About 35 pounds to 100 square feet, worked into the soil thoroughly about a week before planting, will give good results. If a large amount of manure has been applied, O-14-4 or O-16-8 will give.

SIMONS CITES SMOKE HAZARD

Haze from Forest Fires Seriously Interferes With War Effort, He Says

Admiral M. H. Simons, Commandant of the Fifth Naval District, has issued an appeal to the citizens of Virginia to eliminate the smoke haze caused by forest fires which, according to this ranking Naval official, seriously interferes with the war effort.

State Forester F. C. Pederson has forwarded the Navy's appeal to Chief Forest Warden David V. Malbon, of Princess Anne County, with the request that a special appeal be made to all residents of this section to aid the war effort by personally not being responsible for forest fire, and to promptly offer their services to the forest wardens for assistance in fighting those fires which do occur.

Carelessness Cause

The forest wardens state that more than one-fourth of all forest fires are caused by smokers thoughtlessly discarding lighted matches, cigarettes, cigars or pipe ashes from a moving car, or while walking in the woods. The forest wardens urge using the ash tray of the car, or if walking, Stop and Smoke, and then extinguish the smoking material before moving on.

Careless brush burners, also are responsible for more than one-fourth of all forest fires. The State Forester mentioned the State law which makes it unlawful to burn brush before 4 o'clock in the afternoon during

JOHN B. SENTER ELECTED HEAD OF FARM GROUP

Organization of County Labor Committee Effected On Monday Night

TO SUPERVISE WORKERS

Will Work on Manpower Shortages

Organization of the Princess Anne County Farm Labor Committee was completed at a session held in the agricultural department of the Oceana School on Monday night, when John B. Senter was elected chairman of the group and Guy Capps as vice-chairman. H. W. Ozlin, county farm agent, will act as secretary to the committee.

Specific functions of the group, which will be charged with the recruiting and supervision of military farm labor within the county, are expected to be announced in the near future. Authority for the organization came from the Extension Division of the Department of Agriculture, which is expected to supervise farm labor activities during the remaining war years.

Other Committee Members

Other members of the committee include B. W. Shelton, chairman of the county War Board and the AAA; T. J. Williams, farm placement interviewer for the U. S. Employment Service; Frank W. Cox, Superintendent of County Schools; E. C. Turner, of Bayville Farms, representing the dairy industry; Grayson M. Whitehurst, representing the county truckers; S. B. Myers, agricultural instructor at the Oceana School; Don Seiwel, managing director of the Virginia Beach Chamber of Commerce, and Mrs. Wallace Clark, president of the Woman's Club of Princess Anne County.

Similar committees will be set up under Federal direction, in all agricultural areas of the country. It was explained, and they will seek to relieve shortages of manpower on the farms, utilizing all of the many plans which are now being discussed in Washington. A full-time employee of the committee, who will direct the recruiting of workers, is expected to be named at a future meeting of the committee.

STATE C. OF C. PROGRAM SET

OPA Administrator's Speaker; Seiwel to Preside Over Opening Session

Prentiss M. Brwn, OPA Administrator, William B. Benton, vice-president of the University of Chicago, and vice-chairman of the National Economic Development Committee, and Congressman Clinton P. Anderson, of New Mexico, past president of Rotary International, will be the featured speakers at the 19th annual meeting of the Virginia State Chamber of Commerce, to be held next Thursday and Friday in Roanoke. "Virginia's War and Postwar Problems" is the general theme of the two-day session, which will attract many of the business leaders of the Old Dominion.

Following a series of committee meetings, the conference will be formally opened with a luncheon session on Thursday, over which Don Seiwel, managing director of the Virginia Beach Chamber of Commerce and chairman of the Virginia Secretaries Association, will preside. Dr. W. P. Rudd, past president of the Southern Association of Science and Industry; W. McC. Paxton, chairman of the Port Authority, and Dr. Dabney S. Lancaster, state superintendent of public instruction, are the speakers scheduled for the luncheon, and they will discuss the problems now facing their agencies.

SCOUTS START SCHOOL SALARY GARDEN PLANS INCREASE OK'D

Produce Will Be Offered for Sale; Clower Succeeds Hugh Lynn Cayce

Boy Scouts of the Virginia Beach troop have added another to the many duties imposed on them by wartime conditions—the planting of Victory Gardens. Substantial plots of ground in scattered sections of the community are now being cultivated, and results are expected soon.

Speaking of this newest labor which is being participated in after school hours and on Saturdays, Billy Bell, patrol leader of the Beaver Patrol, spoke as follows:

Proud of Work

"Our scout troop is proud to do our bit of work and proud to know that we are helping to relieve the shortage of food and transportation. We hope that the public will help us by buying our vegetables, that we so proudly offer."

Butter beans, beets and tomatoes are the vegetables most favored by the scouts, and these have been planted in gardens on 19th and 24th Streets by the members of the Cobra, Beaver and Fox Patrols. The garden plot of the Stag Patrol is expected to be selected this week.

Al Craft is patrol leader of the Cobras, Billy Bell and Tom Fisher, co-patrol leaders of the Beavers, Frank Toler, of the Stags, and Billy Myers of the Fox Patrol.

Clower Succeeds Cayce

The induction of Hugh Lynn Cayce into the Army made necessary a reorganization of the scouting executives of the Virginia Beach troop. The Rev. J. B. Clower, Jr. will serve as scoutmaster, and Roy Jackson as his assistant.

Mr. Cayce, who leaves today for Camp Lee, has been scout executive of the troop for many years. As a gesture of appreciation for his services, the present and past members of the troop gave him a surprise party at the Presbyterian Church last Saturday night, which was largely attended by local friends of the scouting movement.

V-MAIL FOR SEA MAIL

Through enemy action more than two thousand sacks of mail destined for American soldiers overseas has been lost in recent weeks, the Army Postal Service has reported. The War Department says that the loss of these mails was a striking illustration of why V-Mail should be used. Since thirty million pieces of V-Mail have been handled so far without the loss of a single letter. This is possible because the originals are held at the ports of embarkation until the duplicate copies safely arrive at their overseas destinations.

2ND WAR LOAN DRIVE TO OPEN MONDAY: WIDE RESPONSE SEEN

Organization of County Committee Completed at Meeting Held Sunday Night

$13 BILLIONS SOUGHT IN COUNTRYWIDE DRIVE

Monthly Quotas Over-subscribed, Kellam Reports; $18,000 Pledged at Meeting

Indicative of the response expected from Princess Anne County during the Second War Loan Campaign was the voluntary action of the sixteen members of the local War Finance Committee in subscribing more than $48,000 in personal purchases of bonds at the Town Hall in Virginia Beach on Sunday night. The campaign, seeking purchases amounting to $13 billions, will get underway here on Monday, April 12th.

Organization of the county committee was effected at Sunday's meeting as follows:

F. E. Kellam, chairman, C. R. Bryant, secretary; Don Seiwel, chairman of publicity committee; W. R. Hatchett, chairman of prospects committee; Dr. H. H. Zimmerley, chairman of speakers committee, and W. F. Crockett and P. W. Ackiss, co-chairmen of the solicitation committee. Elected to serve on the solicitation committee were Col. H. L. Rice, R. B. Taylor, O. S. Chaplain, F. W. Cox, S. S. Kellam and W. F. Hudgins.

Monthly Quotas Met

Meetings have been held throughout the week to make plans for the campaign, and an enthusiastic response to the bond buying plan is expected from the county citizens. Princess Anne has over subscribed every monthly bond quota set by the Treasury Department. Mr. Kellam told the committee, adding that it would not fall in this greatest of all war drives. Raising the county's quota will not be easy, he warned, but it can be done through cooperative effort.

Since the county will receive credit for sales of war bonds only in those instances where Princess Anne County is typed on the bond as the address of the purchaser, Mr. Kellam urged all residents to be certain that this is done. Many bonds will be bought in Norfolk, he said, by persons who will give their address as Rural Route 1 or 2, Norfolk, and these amounts will be credited to that city unless Princess Anne County is typed on the bond.

"THE VOICE of a majority, swaying the course of government does not insure good government except it be the voice of a well-informed and well-intentioned people."

FREEDOM OF THE PRESS—AN AMERICAN ESSENTIAL

At this turning point in the war in the Spring of 1943 it is refreshing to get a bird's eye view of past international developments which immediately lead to the present conflict. There is no better—or livelier—way to do this than to read the editorial opinion of American newspapers in which these events were discussed in the light of American principles and the American tradition.

A book incorporating editorials and cartoons from newspapers, large and small, in all parts of the country, which dealt with international events from August 1, 1938, to December 31, 1940, has been published under the title, "What America Thinks." It is more than a history of what happened during those years. It is a tribute to the courage, fairness, and alertness of the American press reporting the facts, and the conclusions to be drawn from them, to the American people. As one reads editorial after editorial in this book he cannot but realize that freedom of the press is a sound principle, and what is more, an absolute essential to the maintenance of a free society.

When, back in 1938, Nazi Germany had already invaded Austria—and was threatening to destroy Czechoslovakia in the same way—the American press was estimating the significance of these acts. These were the days when Mr. Chamberlain was trying to silence the saber-rattling of the Nazis by peaceful means, if possible, and when all democratic countries dreaded the thought of war and resorted to every means to stave it off—including appeasement at Munich which, as subsequent events showed, was a poor one indeed. These were the days when we depended upon the press for information and opinion and when we are glad to say, the press did not fail us. Everyone who will take the time to run through the many editorials compiled in the pages of "What America Thinks" can prove this for himself.

The procession of events moved on—through '38, '39, '40. It was largely a Nazi procession in those days, and the fall of Poland, Denmark, Norway, Holland, Belgium, Luxembourg and France marked the many roads that it took. The American press watched and recorded these events and, in editorials and cartoons, interpreted them to the American people. When, subsequently, we ourselves were attacked on December 7, 1941, we could better understand the wanton aggression of Japan than might have been the case had not the press prepared us psychologically for just such an eventuality by the way in which it had interpreted world events for us in the years preceding Pearl Harbor.

Freedom of the press is part of the American dream that has come true—and that must remain true. Let anyone ask himself what we would have done without it in the years preceding the war—what we would do without it now during the war!

LENTEN LIGHTS

As the lights of the world are dimmed this Lenten tide, as the battle of the ages—the battle between slavers and free men—rages in the far corners of the earth, there is more than ever need for those of us who believe in light to kindle in our hearts—candles of devotion and faith to see us through dark days and darker nights and to enable us to face whatever may come unafraid, because we have seen the light.

Our first candle is the clear, steady flame of truth—the light that dispels the shadows and false images of darkness and propaganda. We must keep its light burning bright in our hearts so that we may not be led astray into the following after chimerical beliefs or selfish ambitions, hatreds, and prejudices.

Our second candle is the slow burning light of patience—the light given us by which to wait and work for the fulfilling of the law. We must guard this light in our hearts for we will have need of it in the dark hours before the dawn of the new day of peace, and the resurrection morning of all our highest visions.

Our third candle is the gentle gleam of mercy—not a condescending charity, but a helpful spirit toward all our brothers. We must tend this light for without it all is lost. There can be no light for any, if there is not light for all.

Our fourth candle is the warm glow of friendliness—the spirit of love for our neighbor, regardless of his class, creed or color. We must cherish this light, for in it lies all the law and the prophets, for "If a man love not his neighbor whom he hath seen, how can he love God whom he hath not seen?"

Our fifth candle is the high reaching flame of gratitude—of thankfulness for the mercies of the past, for the opportunities to serve of the present, and for the courage to face the future—"assured alone that, life or death, His mercy underlies." We must keep this candle burning as a sacrificial fire which warms our hearts even as it burns.

The sixth candle is the brilliant light of faith, of a belief in the Goodness of God; the knowledge that in the words of St. John, "We are the sons of God." We must place first the light of faith, for through faith all things are possible—faith not in man alone, but in God and in the God-given power of man to do right that the end may be right.

These are the candles of the heart and spirit to be nursed with care and to be kept ever before us, for only as we keep the light ahead of us, will the shadows fall behind and the way be made clear into the pathway of peace.

LABOR PROBLEMS

The records show that John L. Lewis has not been very much out of step with official labor policies, and the A. F. of L. and C. I. O. are whistling the same tune as Lewis, insisting on the War Labor Board changing its wage stabilization formula. Specifically, they have told the Board "to scrap its so-called 15-per cent formula" enunciated in the Little Steel cases; to give more than lip service in recognition of wage inequalities and sub-standard wages; and to utilize the possibilities for wage adjustments which now exist in the nebulous phrase "aid in the effective prosecution of the war." There are plenty of evidences indicating that the WLB is "caving in," and that it will agree to wage increases for the coal miners, and for all other union organizations.

TIGHTENS THE PINCH

The total supply of civilian foods and goods has been decreasing very rapidly. Director of Stabilization Byrnes recently stated that increases wages made the weekly purchasing power of the average industrial worker 36 per cent higher last month than in September, 1935. Yet, the Administration has added an increase in the form of compulsory overtime beyond 40 hours a week at a compulsory wage rate increase of 50 per cent. The War Labor Board (unless it is replaced by a new agency) is being forced to compromise, and yield to the demands of unions for more wage boosts.

It all tightens the pinch on the civilian population.

A STALEMATE FOR PAY-AS-YOU-GO

There was a hot time in the old House of Representatives the other day, when the Ruml plan, pay-as-you-go, and other proposed reforms in tax legislation bumped up against a stone wall, and just when everything looked as though all new tax legislation was a "dead duck" the Chamber turned another somersault and ordered a roll call on the question to recommit the legislation to the Ways and Means Committee. This carried by an astonishing vote of 248 to 168. If "typewriter strategy" is still worth a hunk of analyzing the situation in Congress the conclusion must be that the House of Representatives still favors a change in the present method of incomes. This fact may not be admitted by the President and the Secretary of the Treasury, who still fight-as-they-go—therefore they may continue to oppose legislation like the Ruml plan, or similar bills such as pay-as-you-go.

By some peculiar twist of politics these tax reform measures were championed by the Republican party and that drove away a lot of Democrats, who were apparently in sympathy with proposed legislation.

While the House has just passed through one of its stormiest battles the fact remains—and all the politicians know it—that the overwhelming masses of the people in the United States want this kind of legislation on the tax books. Therefore, it still has a good chance of being crowded through.

"OUR NATIONAL ECONOMIC POLICY"

The Office of War Information has published a booklet called "Battle Stations For All—the Story of the Fight to Control Living Costs." There is no doubt but what is official, so far as President Roosevelt is concerned. The title of the booklet is explained as "inspired by a speech of President Roosevelt in which he described the fight against inflation as 'the one front and one battle where everyone in the United States—every man, woman and child—is in action and will be privileged to remain in action throughout the war.'"

It should also be noted that this 128 page booklet tracing this subject goes all the way down the alphabet explaining things about agriculture, Australia, automobile rationing, Bernard Baruch, James F. Byrnes, farmers, manpower, wages, war expenditures, etc.

The booklet has been prepared with the cooperation of the departments, bureaus, boards, agencies, administrators, commissions and other top agencies of the Government. They have labored and brought forth the following as "Seven Points of our National Economic Policy," to-wit:

1. Tax heavily and hold prices down.
2. Fix ceilings on prices and rents.
3. Stabilize wages.
4. Stabilize farm prices.
5. Save more; buy less.
6. Ration all essential commodities that are scarce.

7. Discourage installment buying and encourage paying off debts.

"SIX PILLARS OF PEACE"

Men and women of good intent everywhere are anxiously studying plans which seek to minimize the likelihood of future wars. Every day almost brings forth a new peace proposal by some individual or group of individuals. Some of them lay great stress upon the need for an international government or an international police force. Others put especial emphasis upon international economics in trade.

The great mass of people, however, are unable to understand these plans, commendable as many of them are. One proposal, just presented to the public and the nation, seems to us to be couched in terms that the whole people will understand and welcome. We refer to the "six pillars of peace," the work of The Commission to Study the Bases of a Just and Durable Peace. This Commission, instituted by the Federal Council of Churches of Christ in America, is under the chairmanship of John Foster Dulles. It has been studying this question most earnestly for more than two years.

The program this Commission presents to the people of the United States for their most earnest consideration would commit the United States to collaboration within six vital areas: (1) political collaboration between the United Nations and ultimately between all nations; (2) collaboration on economic and financial matters of world-wide import; (3) international machinery to promote peaceful change as future conditions make necessary; (4) international organization to assure that the government of subject people is directed toward ultimate autonomy; (5) control of armaments; and (6) the right of peoples everywhere to intellectual and religious liberty.

These are simple proposals that every man and woman can understand. They come from the hearts of earnest people who feel that Christian citizens of our nation have both an opportunity and a responsibility.

It is Mr. Dulles' judgment that only a people imbued with a religious faith is truly great and that such a thing is incompatible with national selfishness and isolationism. The presentation of these proposals to the public is most timely because the war may be greatly prolonged and "its outcome thrown in doubt" unless America decides immediately upon its future role in world affairs. It is Mr. Dulles' belief that "these six pillars of peace are derived from moral beliefs common to all religions and can equally be espoused by Protestants, Catholics and Jews, indeed by all men who have an enlightened view of self-interest."

The church people of America are the dominant group and the moving force in the nation. These men and women who do much of the thinking and planning and nearly all of our praying are the ones who give character and high purpose to this nation. If great communities of the nation will direct their hearts and minds to the task of advancing the sound principles their leaders have presented, the future of the civilization will indeed look much brighter.

FARM LABOR PLAN ANNOUNCED

The Department of Agriculture announces an educational program to assist farmers with problems of organizing farms to save labor and to help train new workers on job; and assist farmers in perfecting ways for simplifying many of the key jobs. Every little bit helps.

What You Buy With WAR BONDS

The 50-caliber Browning machine gun is one of the most efficient short range weapons used by U. S. Fighting forces. It is effective at ranges up to 2,000 yards and fires about 600 forty-five caliber bullets per minute.

One of these guns costs about $1,500, while a thirty-caliber machine gun costs approximately $500. Our fighting forces need thousands of these rapid-fire guns. Even a small town or community can buy many of them by uniting in the purchase of War Bonds. At least ten percent of your income in War Bonds every pay day will do the trick.

NO RESTRICTION ON FOOD IN LOCKERS
Food in frozen food lockers may be used by Virginia farmers and other consumers without rationing restrictions. CPA has stated. The total amount of perishable food stored in lockers in private homes, on farms, in commercial plants is considered too small to justify the inconvenience it would cause all consumers either to have this feed declared, or to place any legal restrictions on its use.

GAS FOR SCHOOL BUSES
Another ODT ruling of interest in the State is that school bus operators who did not receive revised Certificates of War necessity before April 1 may obtain supplemental gasoline allowances if necessary. An appeal form may be obtained from the nearest ODT district office, completed and presented to the school superintendent for his recommendation, and returned to the district office.

According to a Stockholm report, Russians and Poles engaged in forced labor in Germany are forbidden to go to church.

Health Notes

SHOES AND HEALTH

"The rationing of shoes emphasizes the wisdom of fitting new shoe to the foot rather than fitting the foot to the shoe. Appearance and style often get the better of judgment when choosing footwear. This results in the purchase of types which disregard the foot's basic anatomy. Hundreds of thousands of persons today have their feet in shoes which are either too short or too narrow, with resulting discomfort. In many instances health is both directly and indirectly affected by such practices," states Dr. I. C. Rignin, State Health Commissioner.

"Formerly, when one purchased a pair of shoes which proved to be ill-fitting, it was possible to discard them and buy another pair. While this procedure, even in the abundant days, was shunned by many who foolishly preferred to suffer for appearance or false economy's sake, this solution still was possible. With the present limitations, however, everyone should make sure before spending his points, that the shoes he or she purchases meet the physical requirements of the foot.

"Tight shoes impede the foot's circulation, and in the immature foot, lead to deformity, depending upon the degree of punishment to which the foot has been subjected.

"Again, the exaggerated heel, still too common in feminine footwear, not only affects the foot muscles, but tends to disrupt the body's natural balance. Such a condition can lead to strains and stresses of muscles and organs that are detrimental to general comfort and health.

"Moreover, the uncomfortable shoe definitely discourages walking—one of the best methods of exercising the body. Certainly, the shoe that hurts does not add to one's peace of mind. A noted American writer on health subjects said: 'Nothing is more calculated to rob the world of its charm than a pair of painful feet. And most painful feet are painful because of the shoes which encase them for sixteen hours out of the twenty-four.'

"While commercial restrictions probably will have a tendency to reduce extreme styles, both men and women still will be confronted with the fundamental problem of looks versus comfort. The wise person will give preference to the foot over the eye in the choice of shoes, if a preference is indicated."

BOOKS TO OWN

"Guadalcanal Diary. By Richard Tregaskis. Random House, 261 pages—$2.50.

Writing in the Book-of-the-Month Club News, Dorothy Canfield says: "When they come to say good-bye to us—the big boys and young men in their well-cut khaki, standing very straight, their shoes miraculously shined, their hair subdued to a severe orderliness, we do not, as with other departures, cry out, 'Oh, do write and tell us all about it.' Our hearts are full of the old painful longing to follow them in thought, these boys, our own with whom we have shared life day by day, until this farewell. But we do not expect or even hope to have from them the long familiar, intimately personal scrawled letters which has softened other separations for us. For many reasons. One is that military censorship could scarcely permit soldiers to write detailed descriptions of what happens day after day. But more than this, our men have neither the time nor the brief, bullet-letter we are so thankful to get, although they seldom convey more to us than that the writer is still alive, is OK, has not forgotten his folks, is having a swell, or a lousy time, would be glad to receive a package of his special kind of tobacco and the sweater was received OK, thank Aunt Minnie.

"We are infinitely grateful for these proofs of good will, but they do little to assuage that eagerness which is almost like a physical hunger to know what is really happening to them. The instant we awaken, we wonder where and how they have slept. At the end of our own day we ask ourselves, futilely we know, what they have been doing since morning. What do they eat? What do they talk about? The words in the newspaper reports are as professionally technical as doctor-jargon about sickness, and convey as little folk-meaning to us. 'A tank clash between Allied and Axis forces was reported today.' What did that mean in terms of our Jim or Bob? 'Action between strong patrol.' 'A surprise flank attack.'"

"The soldier or aviator or Marine who is our own—we desperately strain our eyes, but we cannot catch the smallest glimpse of him.

"We see him plainly, day after day, in 'Guadalcanal Diary. The book written as if to our order. It is the long letter home we have longed for. This picture of what, almost hour by hour, our far-away men actually do, is not composed with the literary skills of climax, elimination, of unnecessary detail, contrast, build-up, variety, deft explanation of the unfamiliar, picture-making but always vernacular words, which make 'They Were Expendable' a classic. It is called a diary and that is what it is. This means that it is an authentic account of what daily happened."

SCHOOL LUNCH PROGRAM DISCONTINUED
Distribution of foods through the State Welfare Department to Virginia communities for use in school lunch programs is being discontinued on April 30. The Department of Agriculture says that under a new program announced in February, schools will be able to purchase foods locally for their lunch programs and receive reimbursement in part from the Food Distribution Administration.

pay within the last few months. Earlier this year he made available approximately $250,000.

In the letter which the Governor sent members of the General Assembly setting forth his plan of aid to the teachers he said: "I have been requested in the past two weeks, by many interested in our public schools, to make available an additional sum of money for the teachers. The Superintendents of Public Instruction and many school superintendents believe that it will be very difficult to obtain sufficient teachers for the next year unless additional compensation is allowed.

The difficulty first became apparent in February and at that time I authorized an additional expenditure of approximately $250,000 for the last half of this year. I believe that a supplementary grant is necessary for the coming session. However, since a large sum will be required I hesitate to act alone in the matter. I regard the grant of money by the executive without express legislative authority as most unwise because it can so easily be abused.

"Under ordinary circumstances a special session would be called, but as things now stand, this does not appear feasible. Many of the members are not able to give the time required at this season of the year, and then, too, a great many districts are without representation.

"Because of this I am giving consideration to an additional grant of $750,000 by executive order. This will be about $1,000,000 added by me to the regular appropriations.

"I am suggesting $750,000 because this is approximately the sum which was appropriated at the last regular session for the service for the fiscal year 1943. This money will not now be used because of the arrangement made at the special session for the liquidation of the State debt.

"I should greatly appreciate an expression from you, which I shall treat in confidence, as to what you believe should be done under the circumstances. I do not propose to take any action unless it appears to have the overwhelming support of the members of the General Assembly."

THE OLD JUDGE SAYS...

"I was just tellin' my brother Fred this morning, Judge...there's never been a time in our lives when we got to live up to that old sayin' 'United we stand, divided we fall' more than we have to today."

"How true that is, Herb. And for the life of me, I can't figure out why, at a time like this, some folks insist on raising a question like prohibition. I can't imagine anything that would tickle our enemies more than to get us folks over here taking sides against each other, arguing about an issue like that. We've got a he-man's job on our hands to win this war and we can't be wasting our minds, our money and our strength fighting about something we tried for nearly 14 years and found couldn't work."

"I say there's a time and a place for being doing any fightin' except the kind that's going to win the war."

MONS CITES

The dangerous spring fire months have begun and early May. The Chief Forest Warden have been instructed to vigorously enforce this law and Navy officials have advised the State Forester that fires caused by forest fire smoke smokers airplane flying, even to the extent of causing crashes. Forest fire smoke haze, which drifts out over the ocean for miles, seriously interferes with detection of enemy submarines, and the accurate firing of the heavy coastal artillery and anti-aircraft guns. Smoke from mountain forest fires, even though they are a long way from the coast, adds to the haze and difficulties of anti-submarine patrol, the State Forester declared. Thoughtlessly tossing away a lighted match or the careless burning of brush might cause a forest fire, the smoke of which may contribute to the crash of a plane, the sinking of a ship, or the death of a soldier or sailor.

Roving Dogs Cut Livestock Supply

Serious losses to the Nation's food supply from livestock are being caused by roving stray dogs—many of them ownerless—reports to the U. S. Department of Agriculture show. Losses from animals killed or injured, while not large in portion to the total meat supply, are nevertheless too serious to be afforded, and are particularly heavy on the individual farmers affected.

Deaths and injuries are great—on sheep and lambs, but dogs also attack and annoy other livestock and poultry. In some localities dogs cause losses in turkey flocks. A survey of State and county laws show that, with few exceptions, they allow anyone to kill a dog caught in the act of chasing, killing, or wounding sheep or other livestock on land not owned by the dog's owner.

Strict enforcement of dog licensing and other laws and regulations not only curbs dogs that interfere with food production but also protects well-behaved dogs.

WALKER URGES SCRAP SEARCH

Agricultural Commissioner Asks to Search Fields for Old Metals.

Under present conditions when farmers cannot get new equipment, they are not expected to scrap metal which they use in the repair of old equipment. L. M. Walker, Jr., commissioner of agriculture and an advisory member of the farm scrap committee, has stated in connection with the Virginia Rural Press Scrap Drive, the purpose of which is to remove 47,500 tons of scrap from Virginia farms before June 1.

"Farm scrap has in the past and will continue for the duration to play an important part in the manufacture of guns and ammunition for the men of our armed forces," Mr. Walker said. "Chairman Donald Nelson of the War Production Board has declared that our nation needs three millions tons of old metal from the farms of America before July 1."

Support Is Sought
"I sincerely hope that the farmers of Virginia will do the best they can to aid the present Rural Press Scrap Drive and to turn their junk into the weapons which will defeat our enemies."

"While all of us are aware that this is one of the busiest seasons on the farm, rainy days often will provide the opportunity to search the fields, yards and barns for old metal which is rusting away and serving no purpose. None of us must forget that useless metal deposited on the nearest junk heap will very definitely help us to win this war."

C. H. Luebbert, executive secretary of the State Salvage Committee and a member of the Rural Press Committee, has stated that a successful collection at this time may well save the farmer labor later, since if the goal is exceeded, no more intense drives this year may be necessary. Mr. Luebbert emphasized that farm scrap and industrial scrap must be depended on to feed the steel mills, and that farm and factory now hold the bulk of the metal good results and save nitrogen.

3. What equipment will I need? For a small garden, a spade, a rake, a hoe, and a small sprayer or duster will handle the job. Even these few tools won't be used many hours in a week and "tool-swapping" will save costs and war materials.

4. What vegetables will I plant? These of the garden will have much to do with this question. Highest food values come from tomatoes, beans, peas, carrots, and leafy green vegetables, such as kale, mustard, and spinach. Corn and potatoes are good, too, but are space users. The gardener's taste will likely be the chief factor in any selection, but he might try changing his tastes for the sake of better nutrition, if he need be.

5. Have I included succession plantings? Garden soil should not take any late-summer holidays. Early crops of beets, lettuce, and the like can be followed with late crops of beans, tomatoes, etc. The garden plan should group the early crops together, to facilitate planting of later crops.

6. What varieties shall I order, from where? The garden suggestions already mentioned will list the most suitable varieties. The best seed you can buy will be the cheapest in the long run. Buy from reliable dealers.

7. How soon can I get my soil in shape? The season for plowing or spading gardens soils is already well along, especially in eastern sections. Turning of the soil should be done before planting with thorough harrowing or raking to pulverize and smooth it. A half-prepared seedbed is no bed at all.

And now, if you have your plans all made and your seed order ready, how do you answer this question?

X. Am I going to carry on in spite of bugs and heat and drought?

Theater Previews

Warner Brothers will present Ida Lupino, Joan Leslie, Dennis Morgan and Jack Carson in "The Hard Way" at the Bayne Theatre on Friday and Saturday, April 9th and 10th. A story of crushing power of two sisters face to face. One bursting with love and the other seething with hatred. A tensely moving drama of a deeply ambitious and luxury-loving woman whose fanatical love for her only sister leads her to such lengths that she ruthlessly exploits all those who stand in her way. The film has a supporting cast of unusual merit.

Sunday, Monday and Tuesday, Cecil B. DeMille's greatest spectacle, "Reap the Wild Winds," will be the attraction. This picture in technicolor is composed of the greatest cast ever assembled in one picture—John Wayne, Ray Milland, Paulette Goddard, Goddard, Raymond Massey, Lynn Overman, Robert Preston, Susan Hayward and romance, the charm of the old South and the terror of hurricane-whipped seas, "Reap the Wild Wind," tells a story that moves from picturesque Charleston salons to tall-masted sailing ships piled up on treacherous reefs, and piratical salvagers threatening America's freedom of the seas. A great epic of the sea, with a great cast and under a great directorship.

Another great film follows, "Keeper of the Flame," starring Spencer Tracy, Katherine Hepburn, Richard Whorf and Margaret Wycherly. This is the story of a woman with the most horrible secret imaginable in her mind. Tracy and Hepburn are reunited in one of their greatest pictures which reviewers call "Magnificent."

"Hi Buddy" will open at the Roland Theatre Friday and continue Saturday. The traveling troubadours and entertainers who visit the army camps are seen again in a picture filled with "live, joy and jollity." Robert Paige and Harriet Hilliard starring in the leading roles.

There will be an added attraction, John Mack Brown in "Raiders of San Joaquin." Desperate outlaws and cowboy crusaders clash to the accompaniment of gun-shots and pounding hoofs in the Western thriller.

"Street of Chance," starring Clair Trevor, Burgess Meredith, Sheldon Leonard and Louise Platt will be seen on Sunday and Monday.

Tuesday, Wednesday and Thursday there will be another double feature — "The Boogie Man Will Get You," with Boris Karloff and Peter Lorre in the leading roles, and "The Lone Star Trail," for the final offering for the week.

An open forum session, featuring all of the heads of the departments of Virginia's State government, will be presented Thursday afternoon, with Dr. Francis P. Gaines, president of Washington and Lee University, presiding.

Dr. Huston St. Clair, president of the Virginia State Chamber of Commerce, will preside over the war conference dinner Thursday night, when Mr. Benton will make the principal address. The dinner meeting will be followed by a price control and rationing session, with Gen. J. Fulmer Bright, State OPA administrator, in the chair. The Hon. Clifton A. cess Anne County is included in the address. Whenever possible, he continued, bonds should be purchased from county banks or postoffices, so assuring proper recognition.

Fill Books, Is Plea

One phase of the campaign to be worked on by the committee deals with the partly-filled stamp books now to be found in almost every home. Purchases of war stamps are not included in the general war bond total until they are turned in for a bond, and the filling of these many books during the period of the campaign should aid materially to the final total.

The next session of the entire War Finance Committee will be held at the Virginia Beach Town Hall on Thursday night, April 22nd.

The women's hostess turned in since the beginning of the Stocking Salvage Campaign if placed end to end would stretch 14,233 miles. The newspaper informs, however.

PLEASE REPLACE YOUR OWN FUSES

—as simple as changing a lamp bulb!

YOUR TRAFFIC POLICEMAN: Your fuse is a traffic policeman that "stops" electricity when something goes wrong. A safety valve. So, a fuse that blows is not a nuisance, but a protection. Locate your fuse box now.

HOW TO TELL A "BLOWN" FUSE: Notice the metal link across the face under the window. When the circuit is overloaded, or "shorted," the link melts, or blows out. And the current stops! The melted link, and scorched spot under the window indicates a blown fuse.

WHY FUSES "BLOW": Usually, because of worn out, damaged, or loosely connected extension or appliance cords; because of shorted appliances or because circuits have been overloaded with too many appliances or lights. Keep new fuses always at hand.

Because single service calls waste critically needed gasoline, rubber and manpower, we know you will be willing to help us conserve these essentials by replacing your fuses whenever trouble occurs. Always keep spare fuses on hand. Follow the few simple steps outlined here, or visit our nearest office for more detailed instructions. We'll be grateful... and so will your Uncle Sam!

DISCONNECT CORDS FROM OUTLETS: If you're not certain what caused the fuse to blow, disconnect all appliance and extension cords.

REMOVE BLOWN FUSE: Replace with new one of the same size, generally 15 amperes for branch circuits.

TURN ON MAIN SWITCH: If new fuse blows, and you cannot locate the trouble, call an electrician.

EXAMINE ALL CORDS: Before reconnecting appliances or extension cords, make necessary repairs or fuses will continue to blow.

DON'T USE SUBSTITUTES: Never substitute a coin for a fuse, or use a fuse of too high an amperage: it's dangerous.

SAFETY PRECAUTIONS: If floor or ground is damp, stand on a dry surface when replacing fuses. Turn main switch to "OFF" where possible.

Town and Farm In Wartime

"A SLIP OF THE LIP"
All the resources of the State Office of Civilian Defense are being utilized to impress upon every resident of the State the high importance of permitting no "bits and pieces" of war information to reach enemy ears through careless talk. The OCD says that a casual remark about a son or brother leaving to join his ship may be the clue the enemy needs to tip off a U-boat, so the State office is distributing the pamphlet, "A Personal Message to the Mothers, Wives, Fathers, Brothers, Sisters and Friends of Service Men," and is emphasizing the importance of the security of the war information campaign through the newspapers, radio and speakers' bureaus.

FARMERS GET MEAT

POINTS
When a farmer sells a slaughtered calf direct to a retail meat market, the market operator must surrender the right number of points to the farmer, says the State OPA. The farmer must then turn the stamps over to his local War Price and Rationing Board.

RATIONS FOR SOLDIERS

Good news for service men whose families live near their post has been announced by the OPA, which says that any soldier who eats ten or more meals per week away from his post is entitled to Ration Book Two.

RETURN UNUSED COUPONS

Unused gasoline ration coupons and books which are no longer valid are the property of the Government and must be turned in within five days after the close of the period of validity. Also, the ODT is asking holders of unused first quarter "T" coupons, which have expired, to turn them in immediately to their local rationing boards. Another point which the three district ODT offices in the State want to emphasize is that when a truck is sold or transferred, the original owner's "T" ration is not transferred with it. The new owner must secure rations for the vehicle himself.

BACK TO THE DAIRY FARMS

Virginia Selective Service Boards have been told to return men with experience to dairy farms. The program includes persuading 4-F men between 18 and 45 with experience to return to dairy farms if they are not in an essential activity, and getting men over 45, not engaged in essential activity, to go back to dairy farming. In addition, the local boards have been authorized to give men 18 to 45 thirty days to get into agriculture or other essential activity, as otherwise they will be classified as available for military service.

FENCING SITES RELAXED

Fencing has been removed from the list of rationed articles to all intents and purposes, and may be secured by anybody in amounts up to 4,000 pounds during any one calendar quarter—provided any fencing can be found in badly depleted hardware stores. In general, anyone can buy up to $10 worth of poultry fencing, barbed wire or other fencing simply by paying the necessary money, and anyone can buy up to 4,000 pounds of fencing provided he also signs a statement to the effect that he will not purchase more than 4,000 pounds during the current calendar quarter.

MORE OIL FOR VIRGINIA

Initial deliveries through the newly completed 179-mile extension of the Plantation Pipeline between Greensboro, N. C., and Richmond will run about 15,000 barrels a day. This supply will help solve the petroleum problem of Virginia and the other Eastern States, according to Harold L. Ickes, Petroleum Administrator for War. When additional pump stations at Roxboro, N. C., and at Clarksville and Blackstone go into service, pipeline deliveries will reach full capacity of 30,000 barrels a day.

Care Should Be Exercised In Selecting Garden Seed

Agricultural Stations Recommend the Crops and Practices Best Suited to Soil and Growing Conditions in the State

In spite of the tempting pictures in the seed catalogs, when it comes to the question of what crops are to be planted in the Victory Garden, it should be remembered that in this year of 1943 the object is to supply the table with the most nutritious vegetables, and not to grow a champion tomato which will be exhibited at the County Fair.

The nutritionists say that for food values we ought to grow tomatoes, green leafy vegetables, beans and peas, carrots, corn, and potatoes, in that order, and not worry much about beets, radishes, cabbage, head lettuce and celery. They all have food value, but where space is limited, the more nutritious vegetables should have first place.

Pictures Are Luring

It's a strong man or woman, however, who can resist the lure of the pictures in the seed catalogs, where new vegetables are frequently advertised which even old hands at gardening feel an irresistible urge to grow. If you are sufficiently confident of your powers as a gardener, go ahead and plant a few fancy varieties, but remember, trials are all that should be made. Entire plantings should not be risked on untried vegetables or untried varieties by experienced gardeners, and the novice should stick to those that are easiest to grow.

State Experiment Stations and the specialists in the Virginia Agricultural Extension Division are ever on the job to determine what crops and practices give the best result for the varying climate and soils of the State, and their recommendations are reliable. In the list of suggested vegetables printed below, they name the best they have found. There may others which will do as well under certain conditions, but for general all-around performance, this is what the gardeners recommend.

X-RAY FOR T. B. CAUSES URGED

Dr. Riggan Advocates Use of Early Diagnosis Clinics During Campaign

Dr. I. C. Riggan, State Health Commissioner, declared yesterday that the findings of the United States Public Health Service closely parallel X-ray results in Virginia. Stressing the importance of early diagnosis of tuberculosis in a statement released through the Virginia Tuberculosis Association, Dr. Riggan said: "In a recent report, the U. S. Public Health Service indicated that of 100,000 industrial workers x-rayed in nine states, slightly more than one per cent. showed evidences of tuberculosis. The real significance of this survey," commented Dr. I. C. Riggan, "was that of those infected, between 55 and 60 per cent had the disease in an early stage."

Many Workers X-Rayed

"During the past year the State Department of Health, in cooperation with industry, x-rayed more than 60,000 workers who voluntarily took advantage of this service. As in the Federal test, it was found that of the nearly one per cent found infected, 50 per cent or more had tuberculosis in an incipient and more or less readily curable form. No more impressive proof is required to realize the incalculable advantage of early diagnosis," said Dr. Riggan. "Undoubtedly, many of the early cases discovered both by the Federal and State x-ray services would not even yet

Work Begins On USO Bath-house

The contract to construct a bathhouse addition to the USO recreation center for men at Virginia Beach, has been awarded by the regional office of the Federal Works Agency to Kent & Company of Alexandria, low bidder at $51,150. Kenneth Markwell, FWA regional director, announced yesterday.

The general construction contract includes the installation of plumbing and water service lines. A priority rating of AA-5 has been assigned by the War Production Board for the necessary critical materials. Mr. Markwell said. The contractor is expected to start work within 10 days. The building will be a one-story frame structure. It will contain lockers, showers and other facilities for the use of service men stationed at military posts in the vicinity of Virginia Beach.

The cost of construction and equipment will be financed with Federal funds. An amendatory application for an additional allotment of $1,000, bringing the total allotment to $6,000, has been forwarded to Washington, Mr. Markwell said.

Regional Meeting Next Month in Suffolk

Dabney S. Lancaster, Superintendent of Public Instruction, has announced that a new Manual of Administration for the High Schools of Virginia, designed to increase the efficiency of schools, both to pupils and the community, is just off the press, and a series of regional meetings of Division Superintendents and High School Principals have been arranged for the purpose of making plans for its adoption in the High Schools of the State.

The 269 page Manual, which is the fifth of its kind to be issued by the Department of Education since it adopted such a policy in the early 1920s, was prepared by a large committee and submitted by Dr. Lancaster, Fred M. Alexander, Supervisor of Secondary Education and George J. Oliver, Director of Instruction. It touches specifically on every phase of high school life and activity.

Important Innovations

The new Manual has three important innovations over previous ones. First, it attempts to give school personnel information concerning how they may improve the instructional program in their local school situation. Second, it gives special attention to a closer relationship between improvement of the community and improvement of instruction, in an effort to provide socially significant education for the whole community, adults as well as children; and, Third, it suggests that measures of quality rather than of quantity be made a part of the standards for accreditation in the schools of the State. It was the

SAFETY PARLEY SUPPORT ASKED

Governor Darden Says Conference is Essential; Set For Richmond

Colgate W. Darden has called on all Virginians to support the Virginia State-Wide Safety Conference, to be held at Richmond on May 20 and 21, in a letter addressed to the people of Virginia. Governor Darden is the general conference chairman.

"Today we are suffering terrific losses of manpower on the home front because of accidents," he said. "Some of these are serious accidents, but many thousands of them are minor in character, although costly in lost time and retarded production. Many an accident to one individual costs the time of a score."

Said Essential

"We must do something about it, at work, on the highway and the public carrier, in the home and on the farm. It is your responsibility and my responsibility to undertake this work. Inevitably our hazards grow in times such as these. 'Virginia has no place for unnecessary meetings today, but at no time in its history has a Safety Conference been more essential than in this hour when the full time effort of every man and woman is required for victory.'"

Col. William M. Myers, secretary of the Conference, reported that plans are progressing along lines of former meetings. Sections to be held simultaneously will include those devoted to bus and truck, home and child, industry, law enforcement, mining, streets and highways, public utilities, railroads and general sections, which all of those attending the sub sections, will attend.

Casualty and First Aid Station Set Up In Town

Volunteer Medical and Nursing Group Ready for Any War Emergency Which May Strike Community. Mrs. R. L. Simmons Reports

The task of developing and equipping a central casualty and three first aid stations in Virginia Beach, under the sponsorship of the Town civilian defense organization, nears completion. Mrs. R. L. Simmons, chief of the nursing section of the local ODC reported this week. Should disaster strike in this community, medical and surgical attention is available for the casualties thanks to the unstinting efforts of interested women and the members of the medical profession, she asserted.

The casualty station, set up in the American Legion Hall on Nineteenth Street, is complete with operating table, necessary instruments and equipment, drugs and medicines, with beds ready for any possible casualties. This station, under the direct supervision of Mrs. Simmons, will serve as the central agency and organization center in the event of aid raids or other disasters resulting from the war.

Other first aid stations, complete with equipment and materials for treating the injured, have been established in the following locations under these head nurses, each of whom gathered most of the supplies for her individual station:

Virginia Beach School, Mrs. Charles Barco, head nurse.

First Presbyterian Church, Mrs. R. G. Barr, head nurse.

Garage of Dr. H. F. Dormire's home on 52nd Street. Mrs. John Cole, head nurse.

4-H'ERS BOOST DAIRY OUTPUT

Increased production of Milk Held Necessary for Improved Health

Military food experts emphasize that men in our armed forces each need at least a pint of milk daily. Virginia's 4-H dairy club members are responding to that need for increased production through better feeding and management of dairy herds, and more careful handling and cooling of milk.

The 4-Hers are perfecting themselves for the task by participating in the current National 4-H Dairy Production activity, in which they learn and practice approved dairy methods, and demonstrate them to others. To encourage 4-H boys and girls of all ages, the activity is divided into Class A for dairy club members owning one or more heifers not yet in production, and Class B for members owning one or more milk-producing cows.

Awards for outstanding records of achievement are provided on county, state, sectional, and national levels. They include medals for both Class A and B county winners; eight $25 War Bonds to a blue award group in each state, and all-expense trips to the National 4-H Club Congress in Chicago to the highest rating participants in each extension section, and two at large. Five of the sectional winners will be selected to receive the national award of either a $200 War Bond or scholarship.

In no uncertain terms the farmers and the group present at the conference related instances after instance of ways in which shortage of farm machinery, labor, and equipment are definitely reducing the production of food. "Too little and too late" de-

GOAL OF $177,000 IN WAR BONDS IS SET; COUNTY RALLY IS PLAN

Second War Loan Campaign Underway With F. E. Kellam as Chairman

WINDER HARRIS ASKED AS SPEAKER FOR EVENT

Committee Certain That Quota Can Be Reached Before Drive Is Ended

County residents must dig deep into their surplus cash to meet the $177,000.00 quota set up as Princess Anne's portion of the $13 billion being sought this month in the Second War Loan Campaign. Floyd E. Kellam, chairman of the Princess Anne County War Finance Committee, asserted this week.

This quota, the largest sum of money ever sought here by public subscription, must be reached by April 30, if the campaign is to be successful. Mr. Kellam and his fellow members have expressed confidence in the outcome and are now making every effort to reach every citizen able to buy at least a $25 War Bond.

Rally Is Planned

A countrywide rally, complete with speakers and music, is being planned by Mr. Kellam and his committee for April 23 and 24, at the Oceana High School. The Hon. Winder R. Harris, Congressman from this district, has been asked to make the featured address and to select the date most satisfactory to him. Further announcement of the meeting will be made upon receipt of word from Mr. Harris as to his plans.

A blunt challenge—whether Americans will be more tender with their money than with the lives of their sons—confronts U. S. citizens as they prepare to meet the appeal of the government to put an additional $13 billion dollars into the fight in the next three weeks.

American dollars which run off to some cozy corner to hide while American boys are dying to defend our cities and towns from destruction and invasion will face a rising demand from all classes of patriotic citizens to come out and fight.

More Money Needed

Millions of workers who are now buying War Bonds regularly out of current income must lend extra money to their government during the Second War Loan campaign.

In recognition of the spirit of sacrifice which is sweeping over the land, soft troops swing into offensive action in Africa and await the signal for a landing in Europe, the Treasury Department is offering a series of government bonds to fit every pocketbook.

NWLB Regroups State With South

Vigorous protest by the Virginia State Chamber of Commerce against NWLB grouping of Virginia with northern states in regionalizing the U. S. A., has resulted in Virginia being regrouped with the South. Vernon E. Kemp, the executive secretary of the Virginia State Chamber of Commerce, announced yesterday.

Virginia's protest was backed up editorially by the press, and individually by various firms and corporations subject to the NWLB supervision planned from the regional offices.

Numerous chambers of commerce, including the Virginia Beach organization, and Virginia's senators also joined in the protest. The National War Labor Board sought to justify its statement on the ground of administrative convenience, but has approved the transfer.

"THE VOICE of a majority, swaying the course of government does not insure good government except it be the voice of a well-informed and well-intentioned people."

WHAT ABOUT THE CHAMBER OF COMMERCE?

This week, if we remember correctly, marks the eighth anniversary of the founding of the Virginia Beach Chamber of Commerce. It came into existence because of the wisdom and public-spiritedness of a handful of men and women who believed that the growing resort community needed a voice of its own, an agency dedicated in its purpose to the development of the Beach as a business community, in which all would profit equally from its labors.

Aware of the potency of the political pressure which existed here then—as now, it dared to be non-political in its conduct, fearing no one and favoring no one, except as such action concerned the whole community. The Chamber of Commerce has had some rough moments as a consequence of what policy there have been times when ill-advised reprisals seemed to threaten its continued existence, but its effectiveness in promoting Virginia Beach has won it such a large number of supporters that those disagreeing with its policies have been forced into "back room" plotting.

Each of these past years has seen the organization's program expand, widening the scope of its service to the community, carrying the story of Virginia Beach and its resort facilities farther and farther afield. Its work cannot be duplicated by any other agency, nor can the weight of its effectiveness be equalled by the efforts of individual hotel operators, for, as a corporate body representing all phases of the tourist trade, its voice has a ring of authority, lacking the selfishness and self-exploitation of the individual business man or hotel owner.

Yet, in spite of this record of accomplishment, the sniping of certain disaffected individuals has continued. Right now, it is reported, the board of directors is suffering from budget-making troubles, with one school of opinion demanding radical curtailment of expenditures which, if allowed to prevail, will wreck the usefulness of the organization for the duration of the war years, at the same time striking an undesired blow at the patronage possibilities facing us this summer.

In chomps with many other business men and women, we ask "Why?" Thanks to marked economies of operation during the past year, the Chamber of Commerce will finish this fiscal period with a substantial balance in the bank. Contemplated license and membership income is not much below last year's total—money made up, contributed only by those who have a stake in the tourist business this year and who are contributing that money to the belief that it will be used in its entirety for Beach promotion.

We do not favor spending just because money is available, and we are mighty pleased at the prospect of a comfortable balance, but we are well aware that this is no year to retrench drastically in resort promotion. The possibilities for an increase of business over last year abound. To the extent that we are willing to take advantage of this opportunity will we benefit in increased profits and increased patronage this year. Is there any logical argument to gainsay us?

If the business interests of Virginia Beach want none of this unsound retrenchment, now is the time to speak out. The board of directors will not fail to heed the public response.

THE 2ND WAR LOAN

We on the home front face one of the most personal challenges of this war to date. That challenge is whether or not we are willing to sacrifice to a sufficient extent to lend our government thirteen billion dollars within the next few weeks.

To do the job, you and I, and everyone we know, are going to have to dig down in our socks to dig out some of those dollars we have salted away for a rainy day—as well as to take a good hunk out of this month's paycheck.

This is a job that has to be done. Sure, we on the home front are feeling the pinch of war. We have gasoline rationing, food rationing, higher taxes and a lot of other little discomforts. But they are nothing compared with the agonies faced daily by our men—men from this community among them—out there on the fighting fronts of the world.

Yes, we know that this constant demand for more money out of our pockets and out of our paychecks—an increasing amount each month—is monotonous. But so is sitting in a fox hole or lying in a slit-trench day after day, slogging through the hell of a humid jungle or that of Sahara sand.

Our sons, friends, brothers, husbands and others we know are doing that for us. They are facing something more terrible than cutting down on a few things that we once thought were essentials to the American standard of living in order to do it, too. As Secretary Morgenthau has said: "Shall we be more tender with our dollars than with the lives of our sons?"

The Second War Loan is an order to the home front to go on a new offensive. Your dollars are the weapons in this attack. They will make possible the passing of the ammunition to those boys up there in the front lines. To win this war is going to cost more and more money—and more and more lives. But the price of freedom is high. We can not; we dare not let our fighting men down.

You can't let George do this for you. You must pitch in with your dollars. Just keep in mind those boys in the front lines. They give their lives—you lend your money! Don't wait for someone to come around and ask you to do it. Do it today—and do it until you feel worthy of them.

NONE TOO SOON

There are growing indications that good news is in the offing for civilians. The retail distribution industry may be relieved of some of the voluminous regulatory red tape which is now hampering operation. This means if it actually occurs, that merchants can spend more time meeting the needs of customers, and less time filling out government blanks. It would also mean that the regulatory authorities are beginning to realize that a smooth functioning retail distribution system is essential in these critical days.

Government spokesmen have been crying for greater efficiency and better utilization of manpower. We have heard grim warnings of a labor draft, yet government has been a great offender in causing a waste in manpower. The distribution industry has pleaded for simplification of rationing and price controls. Retailers are desperately short of able employees. But attainment of greater operating efficiency has been difficult because of cumbersome government regulations.

In recent months, the problems of distribution have grown to proportions that actually threaten a breakdown in the movement of necessities to consumers. Retailers have warned officials that the steady drain of key employees by the military services and war industries, and unworkable price and rationing controls must be corrected.

If streamlined operation rules for the merchant are actually in the making, they will not have come a moment too soon. The next step should be prompt clarification of the draft status of key employees.

The merchants, the farmers and the business men will give everything they possess if it need be to win the war. But if their efforts are to succeed, government must give, too. It must give cooperation and intelligent control.

WHEN NEWS IS NOT NEWS

The Office of War Information (Elmer Davis) was pledged to tell all the news to the American public. But the Army and Navy opposed that kind of news policy. You will remember that Secretary of War Stimson and Mr. Davis were called into conference with the President a few days after Davis went into office and the question of releasing news that might be "aid and comfort to the enemy" or regarded as "military secrets" was challenged by the military establishment. You may also recall that although Mr. Davis was in office that the actual news of Pearl Harbor was not given out by the administration until December 7, 1941. Mr. Davis apparently changed his pre-appointment views upon the subject in short order.

Senator Taft recently made a bitter attack upon Mr. Davis whom he accused of having put out propaganda in favor of a "fourth term."

If Mr. Davis has held up releases, and postponed giving out the news—and he likely has—it is because he yields to the judgment of the President and the Secretaries of the War and Navy, and other Chiefs.

Davis has undoubtedly done the best he could under all the circumstances and rules that restrain him.

HORSE LAUGH OUT OF ORDER

Euphonious titles for tax measures will not make it any easier for the taxpayer to pay the tax bill he owes. The only permanent relief he can ever expect will come from the elimination of political waste in government and from drastic pruning of the bureaucratic fungus that threatens to smother earnings and savings.

In the meantime, the taxpayer can be helped by a new tax bill that will allow the easiest possible installment tax payments from current income for current taxes. Treasury officials should not give the horse laugh to ideas to aid the taxpayer. The bureaucrats don't pay the taxes. They should hump themselves to keep the taxpayer alive.

A STRANGE SITUATION

The Department of Labor functions largely as a statistical-gathering organization, but when its major usefulness is added up it is found to be just about as useful in preventing and stopping strikes as the fifth wheel to a wagon. The Secretary of Labor has very limited power over the major problems that belong to the Department of which she is the nominal head. The President has always played ball with the big labor union leaders, and he has named all the labor boards, mediators, arbitrators, and other agencies and held them responsible to his orders while Miss Perkins has looked on.

Therefore the opinion given by Secretary Perkins in testifying before the House Naval Committee to the effect that absenteeism among workers can be combated better by correcting its cause than through a law passed by Congress may sound interesting even though her advice merely echoes White House policy. Miss Perkins told the Congressmen that the Manpower Commission had never discussed the absentee situation. Strangely enough Congress seems to agree that "she is more to be pitied than blamed."

BOOKS TO OWN

Add the year 1846 to the list of important dates in American history. That's the year which decided the size and shape of things to come for our country, according to Benard DeVoto, who has written a great book about it. The title is "The Year of Decision: 1846" and it's the Book-of-the-Month Club selection for April.

It was in 1846 that the United States engaged in a war with Mexico that brought into its boundaries New Mexico and California. It was in that same year that the great Westward movement of covered wagon trains made the country a continental nation reaching from the Atlantic seaboard to the Pacific, and that the Mormons made their trek to the Great Salt Lake.

It was in 1846, also, that the problem of free states versus slave states was first brought into the open, a problem that was solved by the Civil War. Mr. DeVoto even goes so far as to say that it was in 1846 that the Civil War itself was really decided, when a young Army Lieutenant noted the terrible fire power of massed artillery, in an engagement against the Mexicans and remembered the maneuver twenty years later. The Lieutenant's name was Ulysses S. Grant.

"The Year of Decision: 1846" is a fact book that reads as excitingly as fiction. There is the story of John Charles Fremont and the Bear Flag Revolt in California, of Francis Parkman on the Oregon Trail, of Doniphan's march with the First Missouri. There is the full account of the tragedy of the Donner Party, which got lost in the snows of the High Sierras and, in hunger, desperation and panic, turned to cannibalism to ward off starvation.

Here's some miscellaneous information culled from the "The Year of Decision: 1846:"

The discovery of gold in California was brought about because of a slight engineering miscalculation. James Marshall was building a saw mill for John Sutter. The water wheel was set too low and so the channel had to be deepened. That deepening brought up the first nuggets that developed into the Gold Rush of '49.

The notion that the westward migration was made up of penniless adventurers is false. It took money to equip a wagon train, and those who were most hit by the depression couldn't afford to do so.

One of the reasons the United States was able to acquire Oregon from Great Britain was that a British commission sent to investigate the territory reported that it "had found the country insufficiently supplied with hot water for bathing."

Second War Loan Bonds are our big chance to win through war to ease without inflation.

BINDER TWINE PRICE UP

Binder twine prices will be somewhat higher this year because of the increased cost of materials, the War Production Board in Richmond says. Cordage and twine fibers, from which binder twine has been made in the past, are scarce, so WPA and the Department of Agriculture are encouraging use of part cotton yarn combined with hene-quin and sisal. These fibers are more expensive than materials formerly used.

"Backyard Battlefield"

RIGHT in your own backyard, in your Victory Garden, you can help to keep a weapon mighty as a tank! Food is a weapon of freedom. It will help to win the war, and write the peace.

Every day more and more American foodstuffs have to be transported to our fighting men and our Allies. The Nazis have overrun and pillaged Russia's fertile granary in the Ukraine. They stripped North Africa bare. Japanese hordes have burned and blasted the "good earth" of valiant China. England has already increased her tillable acreage fifty per cent, and plans to increase it another ten per cent this year. But even that is not enough to feed the brave people of the "tight little island", who fought off our foes single-handed in 1941. And there are our own millions of war workers who must be fed.

American farmers and processing plants must produce vast amounts of food this year. And most of it must be transported by rail. The war traffic load of the railroads is increasing every day. So every way in which you can ease the burden means more equipment to move our men and munitions of war. Every pound of foodstuffs that you produce means one less pound that has to be transported to you. . . and another pound that can be carried to our own fighting men and fighting Allies on the battlefronts of the world.

Turn your backyard into a battlefield. . . a Victory Garden. No vegetables ever tasted so good as those you raise with your own hands. And there's not a Ration Point in a truckload! Dig into the "good earth" — you'll find pleasure in it, and have the double satisfaction of knowing that you and your family are fighting for Victory.

consensus of those who prepared the Manual that "in considering a school for accreditation, the extent to which it provides an educational program adequate to meet the needs, interests and abilities of the individuals comprising total school population in the supporting community, is a factor of primary importance." The purpose of the regional meetings, which began on Wednesday, with a meeting at the State Teachers College in Radford and continue through May 6th, is not only to make plans for the adoption of the Manual but also to evaluate the war effort in High Schools of the State made during the present session and to plan for it in the future, including the consideration of courses to be offered (b) the development of the Victory Corps, (c) production of food, (d) provision of farm labor and all related subjects.

16 Points Listed
Trusting that the new manual will point the way of high school administrators to a more vital and useful educational system, its authors have listed and discussed 16 points, considered the ideal of a comprehensive high school program. Briefly these are: A broad and varied program which will provide full opportunity for all youth of secondary school age to study and work toward the solution of their personal and social problems. Preparation to enter liberal arts or technical college courses as well as preparation in commercial subjects and business methods which will prepare students for this field of work. General shop work; vocational training in the trades parallel to real trade practices, vocational work in agriculture, home making, and home management with evening and part-time classes in both for adults; adequate library facilities; health and medical clinics; study and training in music and fine arts; evening and part time classes for adults on a flexible plan; one or two years of additional work beyond the present high school level, open to any youth or adult qualified and interested; adequate physical instruction and a variety of social and miscellaneous activities such as public speaking, public forums, lectures, literary societies, pupil and adult club work, student activities, social gatherings and the like.

The outline set forth is along the lines which Governor Darden has long championed—that of having high schools adequately prepare their students for life, regardless of whether or not they are able to attend college.

The meetings, which will begin each day at 10:30 A. M. will have for their morning topic the Manual of Administration, with suggestions and plans for its use, while the afternoon session will be given over to planning the High School Program for the session 1943-44 in relation to the war effort.

Dr. Lancaster and Mr. Alexander, representing the Department of Education, will be in attendance at the meetings and Dorell J. Howard, State Director, Rural War Production Training will assist in the conducting of the afternoon sessions relating to farm labor problems. The regional meeting, which will be participated in by the Division Superintendents and High School Principals of Princess Anne County will be held on Wednesday, May 5, at the Suffolk High School.

realize that they were victims of a serious disease, inasmuch as they would have no noticeable symptoms. Many of both types of cases would postpone the visit to the physician's office or to the clinic until the infection was advanced. Some of them would have been beyond cure.

To Hasten Victory
No American wants this war to go on minute beyond the time we can bring it to a victorious end. To hasten that victory—to save possibly the lives of millions of our boys on our far flung fronts—it is imperative that every American do his part in the Second War Loan. There is no investment to be every made. The most you can do is little enough compared with the sacrifice offered by our boys in service. They give their lives—they lend your money.

THE OLD JUDGE SAYS...

"Had any news from George and his family since they moved away, Judge?"
"Yes, I had a letter from him day before yesterday. He's in Kentucky... the family's fine and they all like it there. George says he has a fine job in a beverage distillery. He brought out an interesting point in his letter I hadn't thought of before. He said that while the beverage distillers are working 24 hours a day, 7 days a week turning out war alcohol for the government for ammunition, tires, medical supplies and chemicals, they still are able to account for nearly a billion and a half dollars in taxes each year. That's on account of the fact the beverage distillers, though working 100% for the government, are still able to supply the public with beverage from the waste stocks made during peacetime.

"Quite an unusual case, isn't it, Jim?"

scribed much of the small amount of machinery and repair parts that have been coming into this section in the last few months.

One dairy farmer stated that "It is hard to get machinery and repairs, and the cost of labor and production supplies are going up all the time. Last year we got $1800 less for our milk than the cost of producing it. Consequently, we sold 24 head of cattle to reduce operating costs and to catch up with our losses. This year we will sell more cows. We can't carry on much longer at this rate. In order to produce we have got to have the cost of production."

Farm Deferments Help

A member of the county war board in a nearby county announced that the granting of deferments to persons working on farms is helping the farm labor situation some.

Reports on available supplies of farm machinery, hand tools, rope wire, chick brooders and fountains, egg crates, feed, seed, and fertilizer showed that many items are no longer available; some can be had only occasionally, and then in extremely limited quantities; a few others are not quite so short.

The shortage of skilled workers, such as mechanics to repair farm machinery and men to operate farm supply houses, is still another threat to the farmer, it was declared.

Consumer Spending Too High
Consumer spending in 1942 was much too high to meet the war situation of 1943. Last year more than $2 billion dollars of our soaring national income went to feed the desires of Americans for clothes, recreation, foods and luxuries. As these items grow scarcer, more of our income must be diverted from such expenses into government bonds.

During 1942 millions of our fathers, sons, relatives and friends were in training here and abroad. Some were already in action. Casualties were beginning to bite into every community. War Bonds became a vital link between the home and fighting fronts.

Today sacrifice has become a

200th Anniversary Year

THOMAS JEFFERSON

Apostle of Democracy • Born April 13, 1743

AS THE nation observes the Bicentennial Year of Thomas Jefferson, born at Shadwell, in Albemarle County, Virginia, the very principles which he so ardently and eloquently championed face their direst test.

In this hour of our challenge, we can find a renewal of our faith in his words which might, indeed, have been spoken for these times:

"Even should the cloud of barbarism and despotism again obscure the science and liberties of Europe," he once wrote, "this country remains to preserve and restore light and liberty to them."

The words ring with an inspiring truth undimmed through two centuries. We salute Thomas Jefferson, statesman, patriot, gentleman, and champion of the democratic ideas which still will triumph. Their triumph will be his. We are grateful for so many things more than the three for which he chose to be remembered:

"Author of the Declaration of American Independence,
Of the Virginia Statute of Religious Freedom,
Father of the University of Virginia"

P.S.

Remember, Americans, YOU write your own declaration of faith in democracy every time you buy a War Bond!

Town and Farm In Wartime

MEAT CEILINGS POSTPONED

Maximum prices on beef, veal, lamb, and mutton sold at retail will not become effective until May 17. OPA suspended ceilings scheduled to go into effect April 15, in order to be sure that the prices were in line with other living costs.

RAISE CORN PRICES

A ceiling price five cents per bushel higher than present maximums, established April 14, will be effective until September 30, 1943. According to the State OPA which acted upon instructions from Stabilization Director Byrnes and Food Administrator Davis, there will be no further increases in corn prices during the 1943 market season. The price raise is designed to relieve the present acute market shortage of corn for livestock feeding and industrial processing.

VIRGINIA AND THE DRAFT

More skilled labor is assured for Virginia's farm production this year through the new Selective Service regulations, which include two classifications specifically covering agricultural occupations—Class II-C, a "man dependent upon his agricultural occupation or endeavor," and Class III-C, a "man with dependents who is regularly engaged in agricultural occupations or endeavor." Selective Service has eliminated Class II-B, men with bona fide dependents and also engaged in essential war work, because men with dependents now constitute the bulk of physically-fit registrants. Married men without children face induction unless they hold key jobs or in cases where induction would cause extreme hardship.

FARMERS WHO SELL TO RETAILERS

A Virginia farmer who sells butter, lard, or any other rationed food to a retailer must collect ration points for the sale, just as he has done in selling to consumers since March 29, according to OPA. All farm sales must be made at current point values and stamps collected must be turned in to local ration boards with a report made on OPA Form R-1600. This form will be available at all local ration boards during the last week in April. The first report is due during the first fifteen days of May and will cover sales made between March 29 and the end of April.

FARM VALUES UP

Farm real estate values on March 1, 1943, showed an increase of nine per cent over last year, the U. S. Department of Agriculture has announced. This is the most substantial gain that has occurred since 1929. Land value increases during the past year were widespread, with some advance reported for each of the 48 states.

Robert L. Nutt Dies In Florida

Robert L. Nutt, for many years a resident of Virginia Beach and a former chairman of the board of directors of the Seaboard Air Line Railway, died last night at his Sebring, Fla., winter home of a cerebral hemorrhage. Mr. Nutt was 60 years of age.

Until his retirement 15 years ago, he had been with the Seaboard for almost 40 years, working up from a position as clerk in the general manager's office in Raleigh. He served as treasurer and vice-president for many years before becoming chairman of the board.

He is survived by the widow and one son, Robert L. Nutt, Jr., of Princess Anne County. Funeral services for Mr. Nutt were held at the Sebring Presbyterian Church on Tuesday morning. Burial was at Richmond on Wednesday.

Virginia Counties Organize To Speed Farm Labor

Governor and State Agencies Cooperating in Developments While Federal Legislation Is in the Mill

At least 90 per cent of Virginia counties have organized farm labor committees most of which are already active in developing new sources of local labor, reports from county farm demonstration agents to Director John R. Hutcheson of the Virginia Agricultural Extension Division show.

In many counties arrangements have already been made with local school officials for varying school hours and terms to meet seasonal labor peaks. County war boards are discussing with selective service boards plans for deferring essential farm labor and the full-time employment of men in Class 4-F. Director Hutcheson has made contacts with the Farm Security Administration regarding the establishment of migratory labor camps.

(Outside Labor Needed)

The farm labor committees in 26 counties have reported that labor from sources outside of the county will be needed. These committees have been asked to determine as accurately as possible just how much additional labor will be needed and at what seasons of the year. This information will be transmitted to the State Department of Education and school officials will be requested to take lead in recruiting and training urban youth, men, women, for seasonal farm labor during vacation periods. Various urban organizations will be requested to assist in this work.

"While federal legislation leading to a national program is being formulated," Director Hutcheson explains, "our aim has been to develop a local and state program as far as we can and one that can be quickly correlated with any national activities."

Formation of labor committees in counties followed special meetings of the Board of Agriculture in every county of the State last month for a discussion of farm labor situation. More than 2500 people attended these meetings and many boards arranged for community meetings to follow immediately.

(Governor Endorses Plan)

At a conference earlier in March Governor Darden requested the Extension Division to hold these board meetings and recommend the establishment of labor committees where boards felt the labor situation justified it. The State U.S.D.A. War Board, the Extension Division, the State Department of Agriculture and the State Department of Education were represented at the conference.

HIGHWAY FUND IS ALLOCATED

County's Secondary Road System to Receive $54,940 in Coming Year

General James A. Anderson, State Highway Commissioner, has announced the allocation of $50,000,000 of road funds to the Secondary Highway System for the fiscal year beginning July 1, 1943. This is the lowest amount to be allocated since the creation of the Secondary System in 1932 and minimum required by law for the maintenance of the Secondary System of roads.

Revenue Reduction

In releasing the amounts allocated to each county in the eight construction districts, General Anderson called attention to the fact that the present rate of reduction in revenues is $30,000 a day, while in former years allocated to the Secondary System have never been less than $8,000,000 and have been as high as $8,500,000 this was for construction and improvements as well as maintenance. For the fiscal year 1943-44 the entire amount will be for maintenance but the increased cost of labor and material will drastically reduce operations. Of the total of $50,000,000 the "Revolving Bridge Adjustment Fund" has been allocated to the 97 counties in the Secondary System on the basis of "Vehicle Miles," "Rural Population for 1940," "Rural Area," and "Rural Secondary Mileage." "Vehicle Miles" represents the total number of miles driven on the rural Secondary roads of any one county in one year and is calculated by multiplying the average traffic count on all rural Secondary roads in a county by the number of miles of such roads in said county.

County Allocation

From a total of $650,347.27 allocated to the Suffolk District, Princess Anne County is scheduled to receive $51,940.50, exclusive of such funds as are now being spent on projects classified as "military roads." The latter are being constructed with funds made available by the Federal government.

The construction district allotted the largest amount of money is the Bristol District with a total of $747,160.53, of which $59,239.53 will be used for bridge work. Next in order are Salem District with $716,495.31; Culpeper District with $650,937.19; Suffolk District with $650,347.27; Staunton District with $626,857.23; Lynchburg District with $624,207.72; Richmond District with $587,970.50 and Fredericksburg District with $587,970.50.

CHAMBER SETS MEETING DATE

Annual Membership Session To Be Held at the Town Hall on May 14th

The annual membership meeting of the Virginia Beach Chamber of Commerce will be held in the Town Hall on Friday, May 14, at 8 P. M. It was announced this week by R. B. Taylor, President, at the conclusion of a board of directors' meeting. The usual dinner feature will be omitted this year, and the session will be confined to brief reports on the work of the organization, the election of officers and a discussion of future activities.

Adoption of the budget for the fiscal year which begins on May 1 was the main business before the directors at this week's meeting. Substantial economies in operating costs have been effected, with the belief that funds saved during the war years can be used more effectively in Beach promotion upon the conclusion of the struggle.

Essential Work Continues

However, Mr. Taylor pointed out, the essential work of the Chamber of Commerce will be carried on this spring and summer supplemented by the many wartime activities in which the organization has been engaged for the past years. Both the report promotion and information services have been geared to present day requirements, and will function daily from May through October.

A joint committee from the Town Council and the Chamber of Commerce to draw up adequate road-marking plans and to discuss same with the State Highway Department was approved and sent on to the Council for its action. Reference was made specifically to the new Norfolk by-pass which soon will be opened to the general public, but the entire local road situation is to be surveyed.

Nominating Committee

Garrett Smith, W. F. Crockett and L. B. Shelly will comprise this year's nominating committee. Their report will be presented to the membership at the annual meeting for approval.

Beef On the Hoof

Four-H Club Members generally enjoyed the highest prices in the Fat Cattle Sale and Show which ended in Richmond Friday with the declaration by A. W. Eubank, president of the Beef Cattle Producers Association, that the animals were "much better" finished than in two previous shows.

INCREASED EGG QUOTA IS SET

Task for Princess Anne County Hens 4.4 Per Cent Greater Than '42

Princess Anne County poultrymen are asked by the government to produce approximately 584,000 dozen eggs this year, 4.4 per cent more than in 1942, as their share in the Food for Victory program, the Northeastern Poultry Producers Council estimated this week.

Leon Todd, managing director of NEPPCO, declared that farmers can reach this county goal, which is based on the percentage increase suggested for Virginia by the U. S. Department of Agriculture, if adequate supplies of labor and feed are available.

Volume of Production

"Poultry farmers are now working harder than ever in all-out war production," Todd said, "continuing the magnificent job they did last year by producing 525,000 dozen eggs in this county to help supply civilian, military and lease-lend needs. Also, two developments during last year have resulted in larger laying flocks on most farms today:

"First, egg prices as shown by records of one of the larger producers of Virginia eggs, which in last year paid $178.704 in this state for 558,450 dozen, were so favorable that farmers saved an unusually large proportion of potential layers."

"Second, conditions in 1942 were good for raising pullets; fall weather was generally mild and the average hatching date was early."

Critical Feed Shortages

"Those factors point to increased production," Todd explained, "if an improvement can be made in the farm skilled labor situation and if farmers can get enough protein feeds. There are critical shortages of protein ingredients because imports have been cut so drastically. Even soybean oil meal is not processed fast enough to meet demands. These are major problems facing the industry."

Virginia poultrymen, who produced a total of 81,250,000 dozen eggs in 1942, are asked for 84,819,000 dozen this year as their share of the national egg goal of 4,780,000,000 dozen.

Game Party Sale Set for Wednesday

A game party and novelty sale will be sponsored by the Woman's Club of Princess Anne County on Wednesday afternoon, April 28 at the Pocahontas Hotel. It was announced this week. Flamingo will get under way at 2 o'clock.

Reservations are unnecessary and all local women are urged to attend.

Music Will Feature Easter Service at Galilee Church

Annual Children's Program to Be Held Sunday Afternoon; Large Junior Choir to Participate in Service

Galilee Episcopal Church will

In addition there will be the annual children's Easter service at 5 p.m., with music led by the large Junior Choir. It is the custom at this service for the children to bring garden flowers to place on the cross as they present their lenten offering for missions.

The Easter service at Eastern Shore Chapel in Oceana, will be on Sunday morning, at 9:30 o'clock. The musical program for the Easter morning services is as follows:

Holy Communion, 7:30 a.m.

Prelude, "Jesus, Joy of Man's Desiring," Bach. Processional, "Jesus is Risen Today," Worgan. Gradual, "The Strife is O'er," Palestrina.

"Gloria Tibi," Rogers. Anthem, "This Joyful Easter-tide," Old Dutch Melody. "Sursum Corda" and "Sanctus," Rogers.

Hymn, "Jesus Lives," Gauntlett.

Communion Hymn, "Let All Mortal Flesh Keep Silence," French Folk-song.

"Gloria in Excelsis," Old Chant. Recessional, "Come, Ye Faithful," Sullivan.

Holy Communion, 11:00 a.m. Prelude, "Adagio," Mozart.

CEILINGS ON FRESH VEGETABLES

Retail ceilings for cabbage, carrots, lettuce, peas, snap beans, spinach, and tomatoes will be established beginning April 22 through the use of uniform mark-ups over the retailer's net cost, according to OPA. For each vegetable except cabbage, the retailer will determine his ceilings by multiplying his net cost by 1.39. On cabbage, where spoilage is greater, the mark-ups is 1.65 for independent retailers having an annual volume of $250,000 or less, 1.54 for chain retailers with an annual volume over $250,000. Retailers will determine their ceilings each Thursday by applying given mark-ups to the net cost of the vegetable based on the largest single purchase of the preceding week.

At Cape Henry, within the bounds of this parish, landed the Virginia Colonists on Sunday, April 26, 1607. On April 29, they returned and set up a cross at Cape Henry.

The Rev. Robert Hunt, a priest of our Church, was its minister. Captain John Smith calls him an honest, religious, courageous divine, during whose life our factious were of qualified, and our wants and greatest extremities so comforted that they seemed ease in comparison of what we endured after his memorable death.

"The Cape Henry Flag, belonging to the Diocese of Southern Virginia, is kept in Galilee Church as a symbol of the bond of faith which unites us with these English colonists, and as a reminder of our Christian heritage in this place."

HARRIS SPEAKS AT OCEANA HI TOMORROW ON WAR BOND SALE

County-wide Rally to Feature Local Drive; Goal Is Set at $177,000.00

QUOTA FOR LAST MONTH IS FAR OVERSUBSCRIBED

All Princess Anne Residents Urged to Attend Saturday Night's Meeting

The Hon. Winder R. Harris, Congressman from the Second Virginia District, will be the featured speaker at a county-wide war bond rally, to be held in the auditorium of the Oceana High School on Saturday night of this week. Floyd E. Kellam, chairman of the Princess Anne County War Finance Committee announced this week. The rally is planned in connection with the current drive to raise $13 billion in war bonds and other securities with Princess Anne's quota set at $177,000.

The rally will begin promptly at 8 o'clock, and music will be furnished throughout the program by the 246th Coast Artillery Regimental Band from Fort Story. In addition to Mr. Harris, the committee will have present one or more service veterans who participated in the invasion of Africa to relate their experiences on the actual field of battle.

Goal In Sight

Reports reaching the committee chairman from local banks and postoffices indicate that more than $100,000 already has been subscribed by county residents. Optimism that the quota will be substantially over subscribed before the conclusion of the drive was freely expressed at a subcommittee meeting held at the Virginia Beach Town Hall on Tuesday night.

Mr. Harris will discuss the meaning and importance of the Second War Loan campaign, and it is expected that a full house will be on hand to greet him Saturday night. Mr. Kellam will preside over the meeting, assisted by the other members of the county finance committee.

March Quota Met

Information was received this week from Robert F. Nelson, war savings administrator for the State of Virginia, that Princess Anne County exceeded its March quota, continuing a precedent set many months ago. The county quota was established at $45,000, with total sales of $62,707.12 actually reported.

For that month, the State had a goal of $11 million, with purchases reported at $12,495,275. Norfolk City's sales were greatest of all reported, totalling $2,001,367.50, far overreaching a quota for that month of $1,650,000.

Examinations Continue

Examinations for open and chauffeurs' licenses will continue to be held at Virginia I, each Saturday from 10 A. M. to 6 P. M. It has been announced by State Police headquarters. Applicants should apply at the Town Hall during those hours.

"THE VOICE of a majority, swaying the course of government does not insure good government except it be the voice of a well-informed and well-intentioned people."

SEVEN DAYS TO GO

One week from today the greatest financing campaign in the history of the world will come to a close. It began less than two weeks ago, and its goal is the purchase of $13 billion of war bonds and other government securities by the people and their business and industry.

This is so large a sum of money that it is almost incomprehensible to the man in the street, yet it represents but a small part of the bill we must pay for carrying on the war this year. The government asks it, not as a gratuity, but as a loan, guaranteed as to its payment and bearing a substantial interest. Success of the campaign will alleviate many Treasury worries, while it will have a salutary effect on present inflationary tendencies.

The quota set for Virginia Beach and Princess Anne County is $177,000.00, slightly more than three times the monthly quotas subscribed during the past year. It is a stable sum for this community to raise, but the local committee directing the drive is confident that it will be generously oversubscribed at the close of the business day on April 30. It will be if each and every one of us buys to the limit of our ability.

No nation now engaged in war has ever raised such a sum in such a short period of time. The chances are that none other could, however intense their effort, and the fact that Treasury leaders are not concerned over the results is evident testimony that our way of life—however imperfect it may be—offers greater opportunity and security, both to the individual and collectively, than any other plan now in operation.

We like to think of the effect this campaign will have upon the peoples of Europe. A broadcast of its success, in such a short time, will be a sure blow to the morale of the Axis nations and their "democracies," but what heartening news it will be to those who now await their deliverance from the yoke of tyranny! It is so little to ask of us, but it will mean so much to them.

We cannot, we will not, we may not fall. Seven days from now we will know how well we have responded to our government's plea. That answer will be determined by the individual actions of each and every one of us.

MORE FLUID MILK

With many foods scarce it will be good news to housewives to know that The U. S. Department of Agriculture estimates that the amount of fluid milk and cream available per person will increase from 300 pounds in 1942 to 408 pounds in 1943. The average consumption in 1935-39 was only 283 pounds per person or 38 pounds less than in 1943.

Due to the rapidly rising demand for dairy products, rationing of some of them has become necessary, however, and will substantially curtail the consumption of most of the products of milk. Butter consumption is expected to drop from 16 pounds per person last year to 12.8 pounds per person in 1943. Cheese consumption will drop from 8.4 pounds per person in 1942 to 8.4 pounds this year, and ice cream consumption will drop from 13 quarts per person last year to 8.5 quarts this year. There will be similar declines in the consumption of evaporated and dry milk. The net result is that in spite of higher consumption of fluid milk per capita the average person in the United States will have less of all dairy products in 1943 than last year.

Production of milk on American farms is continuing at the highest level in history. Last year over 119 billion pounds of milk was produced or 4 billion pounds more than the previous year and about 15 billion pounds more than the average for the years of 1935 to 1939. Production in 1943 is continuing to break all records with the volume for the first two months of 1943, exceeding that for the corresponding months of 1942 by 139 million pounds.

Why then, ask housewives, can they not get ample quantities of cheese, ice cream and butter? One reason for this is that American people have learned to appreciate dairy products to the point where they consumed more of them last year than in any previous year. The other is that lend-lease and our fighting forces took the equivalent of approximately 12 billion pounds of milk last year. For the year 1943, lend-lease and our men in uniform are expected to require milk products equivalent to 20 billion pounds of milk. To supply these needs it is expected that consumption of dairy products in total must be cut from an equivalent of 852 pounds of milk per person to 773 pounds next year.

FREE MEN CAN'T BE SUBJUGATED

Philip Murray, President Congress of Industrial Organizations, Washington, D. C.

For the second time in a century the nations of the world are locked in a death struggle: a struggle whose outcome will determine whether Christianity and democracy can survive. If the forces of totalitarianism are victorious in this war, the lights of democracy will go out and those of Christianity will burn only in men's hearts, not in their churches or schools or way of life.

These two great forces, democracy and Christianity, are linked together in their sharing of a principle, fundamental to each: the inherent worth and dignity of the individual. Hitler would have us believe that the individual is of no importance; the State is all. The State decides what is right and wrong, who may teach and who may learn, and specifically what shall be taught and learned. To him, Christianity is decadent, its teaching false, misleading and contemptible.

Yet all the might of Hitler and his Fascist followers—his armies, his planes, his propaganda—has been unable to crush the spirit of Christianity and the belief in an individual's worth. Throughout Germany and the conquered countries of Europe and Asia, the voices of Christian priests and ministers still ring forth. Threats of death have not stopped them, nor the execution and torture of their fellow-workers. Many have lost their lives. Thousands of others have been deprived of part of all of their personal liberty. But still they proclaim to the world—in German, Norwegian, Czech and Japanese—that the faith of the Bible is stronger than that of "Mein Kampf."

I am confident that Hitler and Hirohito will be defeated by the Allies. I do not believe that free men and free minds can be permanently subjugated by a nation of slaves. But the war cannot be won on the military front alone. It will not be won if it is followed by a peace dictated by the rulers and generals in a spirit of revenge. The common man has fought this war, on the battlefield, and the assembly line. The common man, from the conquered nations as well as from the victorious ones, must have a hand in the peace.

We cannot, and we should not, attempt to impose democracy on all the world by the stroke of a pen. But we can assure true democracy in our own country, and the Four Freedoms in all nations. If in planning the post-war world we are guided by the great Christian-democratic principle of the rights and the dignity of every individual—black or white, rich or poor, Christian, Jew or Moslem.

BOOKS TO OWN

"Hitler is a man with whom I can work, if necessary, but with whom I can never have a meeting of minds." The speaker is Mussolini, the time, 1934.

"Suppose," foreign correspondent John Whitaker asked Il Duce, "suppose Germany is so strong three years from now that no aggression of powers in the world can stand against her? What then for the future of Italy?"

The little man sprang from his desk and shook his clenched fist in Whitaker's face. "Ah, in that moment," he said, "Italy will be the ally of Germany."

John Whitaker's new book, "We Cannot Escape History," is a keen analysis of the living history of the past decade, witnessed for the most part firsthand. Since 1937 the author has been roving correspondent for the Chicago Daily News and the New York Herald Tribune in Europe, the Near East and South America. He was expelled from Italy in 1941. He was of the few who predicted Germany's invasion of the Soviet Union.

The title of his book is from one of Lincoln's speeches: "Fellow citizens, we cannot escape history. . . . The fiery trial through which we pass will light us down in honor to the latest generation. . . . We shall nobly win or meekly lose the last hope of earth."

Whitaker holds that the statesmen who closed their eyes and "tried to escape history" are every bit as guilty for the present crisis as the Hitlers and Mussolinis, the fifth columnists and the traitors.

Here's an underground story from "We Cannot Escape History." Clendenning Robertson, of the American Red Cross, went to a Paris restaurant where it was said one could eat well despite the ration system. The waiter shrugged his shoulders and said that he had nothing to serve. Robertson finally persuaded him to prepare an omelet. After one bite of obviously spoiled eggs, Robertson put down his knife and fork and called for the manager. "I've been working for months with the American Red Cross," he said. "We have brought milk and bread to your children. Here I come in and ask you for a meal and you serve me rotten eggs."

Health Notes

Black Market Meats

"Black market meat and meat products usually are prepared under very insanitary conditions. Such meat may come from badly diseased animals. Cases of food poisoning and diseases, such as tuberculosis, undulant fever, paratyphoid, trichinosis, cryptosporidiosis and tapeworm, among others, have been traced to infected meat. It is unusual for meat bearing the stamp of federal inspection or meat approved by city inspectors to be dangerous. On the other hand, meat processed by the underground market and sold illegally carried an ever increasing threat of danger to health and sometimes to life itself," states Dr. I. C. Rignin, State Health Commissioner.

"It is unfortunate that many dangerous bacterial infections of meat cause no change in appearance, taste or odor, and, therefore, cannot be detected by the purchaser. Consequently, every housewife should be reasonably assured that the meat she uses comes from safe and dependable sources."

"To protect the public against diseases carried by infected meat, inspectors in supervised slaughterhouses examine all food animals carefully before they are killed. Many dangerous infections can be discovered only through careful inspection by veterinarians and their trained assistants. Every year inspectors are compelled to condemn and destroy thousands of carcasses because the meat is diseased. Even when this is done, complete protection can be assured only by the storage of meat at low temperatures in proper places and thorough supervision. Black market lacks this supervision."

"Meat can be contaminated if it is handled or stored in insanitary places; therefore, authorities require that food animals be killed in slaughterhouses which are properly constructed and maintained in a clean and sanitary condition by clean and healthy workmen. Meat which is slaughtered or processed in dirty and insanitary surroundings not only is likely to be contaminated by refuse, but may be badly infected also."

It is in such surroundings that much of the black market meat is being processed. "It follows that those purchasing meat should not permit their desire for this food to get the better of their judgment. If there is a scarcity of meat, meat substitutes should be used. Aside from the ethics involved, to obtain meat from sources where even a suspicion of illegal processing or marketing exists, is to run a very real risk to health."

American aviation industry would be able to produce in a single year almost double the number of planes that were made throughout its history up to 1940. It is predicted that some of these planes will be quadruple the size of the largest pre-war planes and that the nation will be dotted with huge airfields. He predicted that great chemical plants would stand ready to turn out new plastics, new paints, new textile fibers, new fertilizers, and a hundred and one other new materials in quantities undreamed of only a few years ago. There would be wood that won't burn, glass that won't break, machine bearings that contain no metal. There would be better and yet cheaper homes, finer and less costly automobiles, radios, and refrigerators—a greater abundance of almost everything that adds to the comfort and satisfaction of living—all of these will be awaiting the homecoming soldier when the war is won.

"Spurred to extraordinary needs of the past few years," he added "we have gone ahead 30 to 50 years as measured by the old rate of development in many fields."

Those are statements of fact by a man who knows what he is talking about—and he never exaggerates.

The House of Du Pont of Wilmington stands out as a great leader of American industry. A Du Pont manufactured powder for George Washington during the Revolution, and the United States Government frequently has relied upon the du Ponts for munitions over the years. Under the guidance of Lamont duPont, the company has forged steadily ahead in recent years. It manufactures thousands of chemical products to be found in every household in the country. In speaking to American fighting forces overseas a few days ago Mr. du Pont made a number of very thought-provoking statements on the world picture of today.

"After the war we will have at our command in America ten, fifty a hundred times what we had before, chiefly new materials," he said. "American factories will be producing almost seven times more aluminum than in 1939, and 100 times more magnesium, which weighs less than aluminum. We will be making almost as much rubber by chemical process as was grown annually in all the world before the war," he added. He said the

At the Bayne Theatre on Friday and Saturday, April 23rd and 24th, "CRYSTAL BALL" will be the opening attraction. Paulette Goddard, Ray Milland, Virginia Field and Gladys George starring in the leading roles. This is the season's smartest sophisticated comedy. The crystal ball sees all but tells nothing.

Sunday Monday and Tuesday Paramount's "STAR SPANGLED RHYTHM" will be featured. A powerful array of stars are featured in this greatest musical production. Chief among whom are Bing Crosby, Bob Hope, Dorothy Lamour and Paulette Goddard. Seven hit tunes and more than forty top-ranking stars make "Star Spangled Rhythm" a top-ranking musical comedy.

The story tells of the sad plight of Victor Moore, gateman at the Paramount Studio in Hollywood, whose sailor son, Eddie Bracken, believes him to be head man on the lot. Eddie, on shore leave, comes to the studio with a bunch of his mates. Betty Hutton, studio switchboard operator, figures out a way for Moore to continue his deception and give the sailors the show of their lives at the same time.

Every Paramount star gets behind her. They sing, dance and clown, each according to his talent. Considering that there are more than forty top-notch performers, "Star Spangled Rhythm" ought to be everything it's cracked up to be, which is, the biggest, best show ever to come out of the Paramount Studio.

"THE AMAZING MRS. HOLLYDAY" starring Deanna Durbin, Edmond O'Brien, Arthur Treacher and Barry Fitzgerald will be the attraction for Wednesday and Thursday. This is a new Durbin never seen before; warm, vivid, and vibrant, as she lives to the role that demands all the heart all the woman, a woman can give.

Amagnificent story that sweeps from war-torn China across the dangerous Pacific to San Francisco's swank Nob Hill. She went for a boat ride and came back a bride, with nine little kids but no groom. She's the merriest widow of all. A picture that you will cheer and remember always.

There will be a double feature at the Roland Theatre each day starting Friday and Saturday with "POWER OF THE PRESS", starring Guy Kibbe and Gloria Dickson. This is a powerful drama with a different twist. A new kind of thrill and different kind of adventure. The working press goes to work on a murder-arson frame-up mob. Trailorous rats run for cover when this cold white light of the press hits their wanton war of terror. When fighting newspaper lads and girls cover their biggest story to lash out at home-bred Hitlerites you can count on powerful drama and thrills. "RODEO RHYTHM" is the added attraction.

Sunday and Monday Chester Morris and Ann Savage will be featured in "AFTER MIDNIGHT WITH BOSTON BLACKIE". This is a story of fiction's famous rascal in new hair-raising perils. Air raid sirens shriek and bullets scream in this new Chester Morris Drama. The story is a well-paced, action-filled yarn chiefly concerned with the murder of an ex-gangster and the disappearance of his valuable diamonds. Ann Savage, vivacious blonde Columbia starlet, is seen as the daughter of the gangster.

LIFE BENEFITS PAID IN STATE

Insurance Payments Total $15,704,000 to Virginians in 1942, Institute Reports

Virginians families received $15,704,000 in life insurance death benefit payments during 1942, compared with $16,271,000 in the previous year. It was reported today by the Institute of Life Insurance.

"These death benefit payments averaging $1,308,700 every month for the year, make up this state's share of the continuous national flow of benefit payments which are so important in stabilizing the home from economy," Holgar J. Johnson, president of the Institute, said in announcing the figures. "Payments were made under 23,768 policies during the year in this state alone compared with 17,880 in the previous year, thus helping to prevent many family dislocations at a time when every energy is needed for the war effort. They also contribute to the stabilization of community credit."

Of the aggregate payments to families in this State, $11,218,000 was under 4,428 ordinary policies, $1,180,000 was under 753 group life insurance certificates, and $3,306,000 was under 18,587 industrial insurance policies.

The national total was $1,002,990,000 paid under 1,091,461 policies compared with $1,009,635,000 under 1,074,606 policies in 1941. This decrease reflected the wartime health status of the nation, a considerable improvement being recorded in the early part of the year, with an increase in mortality during the closing months of the year.

Aggregate national payments under 260,759 ordinary policies were $716,054,000 while $119,572,000 was under 73,502 group insurance certificates and $167,364,000 was under 737,200 industrial insurance policies.

and she appeals to Boston Blackie for help in solving her father's disappearance. After a number of thrilling episodes Blackie manages to come out on top despite misguided interference from the police. Buster Crabbe will be featured in "FUGITIVE OF THE PLAINS" as the added feature.

Tuesday, Wednesday and Thursday the Andrews Sisters and Grace McDonald will be co-starred in "HOW ABOUT IT". Also Don Barry in "JESSE JAMES JR."

enough. Labor committees that have been organized are, as a rule, composed of the chairman of the county board of agriculture, the chairman of the county U.S.D.A. war board, a representative of any general farm or home organization, the county agent, the county superintendent of schools, a teacher of vocational agriculture, the farm security supervisor, and a representative city business man.

"While these committees are operating through the neighborhood leader system to find out to what extent the farmers are interested in the use of new sources of labor," Director Hutchenson points out, "we have results of an earlier survey among community and neighborhood leaders who indicated how much of the 1942 labor supply, including family labor, they thought would be available in 1943. Approximately 3,000 leaders were questioned. Seven percent said they would have in 1943 less than 50 percent of the labor they had in 1942; 25 percent said they would have from 50 to 74 percent as much labor in 1943 as in 1942; 26 percent said they would have from 75 to 99 percent as much; and 43 percent said they would have 100 percent. The average anticipated labor shortage for the state as a whole was between 15 and 20 percent."

"In spite of this serious shortage," Director Hutchenson adds, "these farm operators indicated that they would increase production of livestock in 1943 and plant 95 percent as much acreage in crops. They said they would do this by working themselves and their families longer hours, by cooperating among neighbors, and by developing new sources of labor."

It being the same property which was conveyed to Moses Caffee by deed of A. Johnston Ackiss, et ux, dated May 9, 1907, and duly recorded in the Clerk's Office of the Circuit Court of Princess Anne County, Virginia, in Deed Book 72, at page 73.

Town and Farm In Wartime

The State Office of Price Administration is starting an intensive drive to wipe out black markets in poultry, and to end sales at higher than ceiling prices. An OPA investigation has shown that virtually every handler of chickens in the Valley of Virginia—where poultry is a $16,000,000 industry—is breaking regulations by selling above established prices, and steps are being taken to correct this condition. Sweeping changes in poultry price ceilings were recently announced as part of the campaign to stop illegal sales, with prices reduced from one cent to 10 cents per pound on expensive birds and raised one or two cents per pound for cheaper poultry. Revised prices are expected to effect substantial savings to consumers.

LOANS FOR CONSERVING FUEL

Virginia home owners who want to convert their old heating equipment to use other fuels, or to install inside insulation, weather-stripping, storm doors, or storm windows may get FHA loans on a delayed plan. Initial payments on loans made between April 20 and September 1 may be deferred until November 1, 1943, if the entire loan is used for such work.

LIVE HOG CEILING THREATENED

State livestock producers and packers were warned last week by Chester C. Davis, food administrator, that a ceiling would have to be established on live hogs if prices did not adjust themselves in line with wholesale ceilings. He remarked, however, that the recent course of the hog market has been most satisfactory.

MORE SOYA FOODS

Edible soya products—the high protein foods soon have an important place in both military and civilian diets—are expected to reach 1-2 billion pounds annually. The quantity available for civilians will be many times as large as in the past year. Soya products have already played a significant wartime role. Rich in valuable proteins, minerals and vitamins, they are readily adaptable to large scale use as a human food, to supplement meat, milk and eggs.

SCRAP DRIVE LAGGING

In spite of the fine cooperation given to the Farm Scrap Drive by the Virginia Rural Press, reports to the State Committee in Richmond indicate that the farmers are failing to get out their scrap. The drive, only has one more month to run, and from present indications the State will fail to make its quota of 87,500 tons unless a concerted effort is made by Virginia's farmers to turn in their scrap, which is so vitally needed for the prosecution of the war. According to Robert A. Wilson, chairman of the State Committee, reports on the sinkings of American ships show that an enormous tonnage of steel is needed to replace them, and with the increasing demands for war equipment the need for salvage metals is acute.

RATIONING PROGRAM CHANGES

Farm fencing and peanut pickers are no longer rationed; quota controls on milking machines, grain and forage flouers, portable and stationary elevators have been removed; and pressure cookers have been placed under rationing. The U. S. Department of Agriculture has announced. The 150,000 pressure cookers which will be produced in 1943 will be rationed by county farm rationing committees, to users showing greatest need for them. Community organizations composed of several families who agree to use a pressure cooker jointly will get first consideration, and Virginia families are urged to form "pressure cooker sharing" clubs as well as car sharing clubs.

Vegetables for the Family Help Make V-Home

The 1943 Victory Home conserves food by producing its own supply of vegetables. Whether you live in town or on a farm, the Home Victory Garden will insure a healthful diet of vegetables full of vitamins and minerals.

ACTUAL PLANTING PROBLEMS OF VICTORY GARDENS SOLVED

Now that you have decided where and how to plant your Victory Garden, and what to put in it, the question of actual planting arises.

The first rule for any gardener to remember is that the soil must be thoroughly prepared. Anything that can be done to improve the condition of the soil will pay dividends in greater production of higher quality vegetables, and so don't let the urge-to-plant cause you to plant before the soil is ready.

Plowing the First Step

Plowing is the first step in this preparation. Probably your garden has already been plowed. If this has been done, it is so much the better, for the manure and other organic matter will have a chance to partially decompose. If the garden has not been plowed, get it plowed as soon as possible. And don't forget to make a liberal application of stable manure before plowing. Manure is the best soil conditioner available in addition to supplying some nitrogen, phosphorus and potash for plant growth. A good job of plowing will turn this manure under thoroughly so that it will not interfere with the cultivation of the vegetables.

That portion of your garden which you are going to plant first should be thoroughly harrowed after the plowing is completed. This will pulverize the soil and give a fine seedbed. In many cases, it will be necessary to use a hand rake to put on the finishing touches. The smaller the seed, the more important it is to thoroughly prepare the seed bed.

Oceana Students Sponsor 5 Jeeps

The students of Oceana elementary and high school departments recently engaged in the sale of War Saving Stamps and Bonds with the hopes that a sufficient number of each would be sold to purchase a jeep. The price of such jeep is $900.00.

The drive was sponsored by members of the Victory Corps. It started March 17 and ended last Friday. During this time $4,600 worth of stamps and bonds were sold, to purchase five jeeps instead of one.

The Victory Corps is under the direction of Miss Mary Alice Hite, of the Social Science Department.

Flower Sale Tomorrow

The annual sale of cut flowers and vegetable and flower plants sponsored by the Princess Anne Garden Club will be held tomorrow morning in Roland Court, Virginia Beach, it was announced this week. The sale is a feature of the spring program of the local garden club.

bed. Small seeds have difficulty in pushing up their growth through poorly prepared soil. Large seeds may be able to make it, but even then growth will be injured or retarded unless the soil is properly prepared.

Planting Seed

Now that the soil is ready, the next step is to lay off the rows and begin planting. Rows should be straight, not only for the looks but also to make cultivation easier. Usually the rows should run the long way of the garden. If the garden is on a hillside or steep slope, the rows should never run up and down the hill. For (Continued on page four)

WASTE IS EVIL OF BLACK MART

Tons of Vital Foods and By-products Destroyed Daily by Illegal Operations.

Wanton waste of by-products is one of the worst phases of the black market in meats. Elements wasted in illegal slaughtering would help farmers meet the acute shortage of fertilizer and high-protein animal feeds to produce meats and crops. Strategic materials from which surgical sutures, adrenalin, and vital insulin are derived are also lost through the waste of illegal markets.

Black marketers of meats, working secretly and in haste, slaughter the animals, often under unsanitary conditions, and keep for sale only the big primal cuts, throwing the rest away. In their haste to sell only the choicest cuts, the black marketers daily destroy tons of vital foods and by-products, every one of which is said to be as high in energy-producing protein, as the regular meat cuts, and all of which would go a long way in stretching America's meat supply.

Gelatin for military photographic film, hides for leather, rendering fats for soap, glycerine for munitions, fertilizers, bone meal—all these and other essential by-products are lost.

Fighting Black Markets

What are we doing about it? Four definite steps have been taken against the black market in meats: (1) livestock slaughter and dealer permits went into effect with most rationing on March 31; (2) a set-aside order has gone into effect, requiring all meat dealers operating under Federal inspection to put away for war requirements designated percentages of their production; (3) wholesale and retail price ceilings have been established; (4) consumer rationing has been

BROMFIELD TO ADDRESS STATE CHAMBER MEET

Conservation Conference to Be Held in Richmond on Friday, May 21

TOWN GROUP AIDING

Food Administrator Asked To Attend

Conservation of Virginia's natural resources will be the subject of a one-day conference scheduled for the John Marshall Hotel, in Richmond, on Friday, May 21. The session has been called by the Virginia State Chamber of Commerce and other co-sponsors, including the Virginia Beach Chamber of Commerce. Don Seiwel, managing director of the local organization, is serving as a member of the general conference committee.

Louis Bromfield, prominent novelist and a nationally known conservationist, has accepted an invitation to address the conference at one of the scheduled sessions. Dr. H. H. Bennett, director of the U. S. Conservation Service, of Washington, also has agreed to appear on the program.

Chester Davis Invited

Other invitations have been sent to Chester C. Davis, recently appointed Food Administrator by President Roosevelt, and to Dr. Francis P. Gaines, president of Washington and Lee University and chairman of the Virginia State Planning Board.

The sessions will be held in conjunction with the annual Statewide Safety Conference, scheduled for May 21 and 22, in Richmond at the Jefferson Hotel.

Conservation Essential

In announcing the conference, Verbon E. Kemp, executive secretary of the State Chamber of Commerce stated that the demands of our war effort at this time require that we pay strict attention to the conservation of our soil, water resources and forests for our future protection. Studies made by the State planning board along these lines will be presented for discussion.

A substantial representation from Virginia Beach and Princess Anne County has been asked to attend the conference, local details of which are being handled by Mr. Seiwel.

CANTEEN GIRLS VIE FOR HONOR

"Most Typical Hostess in America" Competition Includes Local USO Club

A nation-wide contest has been announced to select the "Most Typical Canteen Hostess in America" and participating in the competition will be USO Club at Virginia Beach.

The novel competition is being sponsored by the National Canteen Association, a non-profit, non-political organization, formed a few years ago "to spread good cheer and good fellowship thru dunking." The association has over three million members, many of whom are now in the armed forces.

Many Dunking Tournaments

Many camps and canteens hold weekly dunking tournaments, all of which have proved most successful. In that one of the most important duties of a canteen hostess, in spreading good cheer and good fellowship, is to serve and dunk donuts with the boys, the N. D. A. is sponsoring the nation-wide contest in order to honor these gallant, unselfish young ladies who are doing so much for the war effort.

The contest is open to all types of canteen hostesses, those working at Stage Door Canteens and U. S. O. club houses. The grand prize winner—the one who is selected as being the "most typical" (Continued on Page Three)

Dad and the Boys Get in the Scrap

Heavy scrap from America's farms is still vitally necessary to beat the enemy. Now that good weather makes it easy to locate scrap iron, every farm can help supply the materials that make guns and ammunition.

OCEANA SCHOOL HOLDS ANNUAL SUMMER ROUND-UP WEDNESDAY

Next Wednesday afternoon, at 1 o'clock, the Parent-Teachers Association of the Oceana School will hold its annual Summer Round-up for the benefit of the pre-school children in the community who will be six years of age on or before next September 1st.

The purpose of these sessions is to acquaint the pre-school children with one another, to give them a view of the school they will attend and to determine any who may have defects which can be corrected before the opening of the fall term.

Dr. Cora Z. Corpening, of Virginia Beach, and Miss Lillian

Ashley, county public health nurse, will be present to determine any defects and to offer suggestions for their correction. For instance, children will be tested as to their weight, height, vision and hearing. Miss Ashley also will vaccinate any children who have not yet been vaccinated but written permission from the parents must be furnished by those who apply.

At the conclusion of the examination a party will be given for those present. All parents who have children who are expected to enroll in the Oceana School next September are requested to bring or send their youngsters.

Mrs. Bell Is President

Mrs. O. B. Bell, of Virginia Beach, was elected president of the Oceana Parent-Teachers Association at the April meeting held last week. She will serve for the session 1943-44.

Other elected officers were Mrs. Al. Craft, vice-president; Miss Anna Gordon Barrett, secretary, and Mrs. Howard Gibbs, treasurer. As a part of the program, Miss Martha Goodwin, of Richmond, and Miss Velma Yoe-man, of Oceana, sang several vocal selections.

Kempsville Seniors Sponsor 5 Jeeps

The Senior Class of the Kempsville High School will present a modern dramatization of Mary J. Holmes' popular novel, "Lena Rivers," in the school auditorium next Thursday evening at 8:15 o'clock.

For many years "Lena Rivers" has headed the best-seller list, and it has been translated into many languages, becoming one of the world's best-known modern classics. The dramatization has long been a popular stage vehicle.

Included in the cast are the following students:

Lena Rivers, played by Doris Murden; Granny Nichols, Marguerite Drummond; John Livingstone, Edward Strickland; Mrs. Livingstone, Joyce Brinkley; Caroline Livingstone, Alice Oliver; Anna Livingstone, Alice Eichelberger; John Livingstone, Jr., Les Yoder; Frank Graham, Dick Mattox; Mrs. Graham, Dorothy Thompson; Durward Belmont, David Robishaw; Malcolm Everett, Paul Horner; Aunt Milly, Shirley Varus, and Old Caesar, Raymond Cooley. The play is under the direction of Miss Helen V. Eddy.

COUNTY QUOTA OF WAR BONDS SAID EXCEEDED BY PURCHASERS

Reports Made Saturday Night Rally Indicate Drive Is Over the Top

LOCAL EFFORT PRAISED BY WINDER R. HARRIS

Story of Convoy Crossing to North Russia Reported By Naval Officer

An enthusiastic, but disappointingly small audience attended the War Bond rally held at Oceana High School last Saturday night under the auspices of the Princess Anne County War Finance Committee, to hear the Hon. Winder R. Harris, Congressman from the Second Virginia District, make a stirring plea for support of the government's deficit-financing program.

Less than one hundred persons were on hand for the interesting talks and the lively band music, furnished by a regimental band from Fort Story, but that handful of Princess Anne residents subscribed more than $70,000 in war bonds before the evening was over. All subscriptions were of a voluntary nature and ranged from $5,000.00 downward to $500.00. Smaller subscriptions in generous number were not included in the sales' tally.

Quota Oversubscribed

That sum, added to the $82,000 reported sold by the Virginia Beach office of the National Bank of Commerce during the opening days of the drive and smaller sales totals from the county's postoffices, assured the committee that the $177,000.00 quota set for the county would be easily reached before the conclusion of the drive. Floyd E. Kellam, chairman of the local war finance committee, expressed the gratitude of the campaign's leaders for the generous response of county residents.

Officially, the Second War Loan Drive will be brought to an end today, and persons who have not yet made their purchases are urged to do so before the close of business hours at their local bank or post office. Sales made on and after tomorrow will be credited to the quota established for the month of May.

Harris Praises Effort

The patriotism of Princess Anne's citizens, Mr. Harris asserted, has ever been evident in (Continued on page four)

"THE VOICE of a majority, swaying the course of government does not insure good government except it be the voice of a well-informed and well-intentioned people."

WORLD DRIVE OVER THE TOP

Politically reports from banks and post offices serving Princess Anne County indicated early this week that the second war Loan Drive for $177,000.00 had gone over the top by a substantial sum. That is good news, indicative of the spirit of our people and of the splendid effort made by the local committee, but we must not rest on such easily-won laurels.

Whether we admit it or not, residents of this Tidewater area have benefited more from this business of war than have those in other sections. Prosperity is rampant here, money is easily made available and all classes of workers are better off financially today than they were one year ago. We have accumulated a vast reserve of unemployed—due primarily to the war—and patriotism as well as sound business judgment demand that a major portion of this cash be spent for war bonds.

So we must buy more—and more. And we must buy, not only during the period of this second war drive, but each and every pay-day, putting aside at least ten per cent of our income to do our part in erasing a potential government deficit. We said our government by such action in easing financial worries, by putting a brake on inflation and by storing up to our own credit funds that may be used at some future rainy day.

Remember, too, that one battle doesn't win wars, and that is why the Treasury is not telling us that we may put our financial worries behind us after the Second War Loan campaign closes this week, end.

We do not know how many Bond Battles it will require to take Nazism out of the world, or how many campaigns it will require to remove the war lords from Japan, so the government is not telling us now that the second War Loan drive will be the last this year.

In fact, Secretary of the Treasury Morgenthau in opening the drive pointed out that later drives are in store and that the home front will be asked for more and more aid in the form of savings and taxes, as well as increased pay-roll savings. There'll be loan drives, you may be sure, until peace is won.

We've gone over the top in this campaign—let's continue to do our part in the days which lie ahead.

SCRAP SHORTAGE STILL CRITICAL

In the first six months of 1943, 3,000,000 tons of scrap metals are being bought from American farmers by the Salvage Division WPA, at the request of Chairman Donald M. Nelson. This means that every farm in the United States must collect and turn in an average of 1,000 pounds before July first.

Chairman Nelson has thus announced to the nation's farmers that there is still a critical need for an adequate backlog of scrap piles in communities throughout the country despite any rumors to the contrary.

Reports from many of the nation's steel producing centers indicate that many mill inventories are dropping rapidly. Another crucial scrap shortage is expected despite the improvement in the over-all situation during the latter part of 1942. 1942 campaigns skimmed the cream of the farm and home scrap crop, but the farmers of the nation must dig much deeper in 1943 to assure steel mill operation.

The American farmer, second only to industry as a source of heavy scrap, is being counted upon for a large portion of this year's scrap supplies. Every ton of farm scrap is needed in order to enable the war production program to meet the President's demand for more arms and equipment for the United Nations war machine.

Mr. Nelson asks editors to push the drive for Farm Scrap and to use their influence to hearten the activities of the thousands of volunteer salvage committees.

Among those groups who have pledged their cooperation are the Boy Scouts, the Future Farmers of America, the Farm Press, 4-H Clubs, Farm Implement Dealers, Rural Electrification Administration, American Farm Bureau Federation, National Grange, Farmer's Union, County U. S. D. A. War Boards, County Agents and others. All of these groups are participants in the salvage program and their national organizations are active in the scrap campaign.

In order to accomplish the 3 million ton farm scrap goal by July first all participating groups must formulate plans at once that can be put into immediate operation.

Scrap dealers who played such an important part in processing and moving the huge quantities of scrap collected in 1942 are beginning to show anxiety over 1943 prospects. They fear that smaller tonnages will be forthcoming because of the erroneous general feeling that plenty of scrap was accumulated in 1942 campaigns.

Some idea of the terrific rate at which scrap is being consumed is indicated by the fact that steel mills need approximately one million tons of scrap per week in order to operate at capacity.

This tremendous consuming figure shows how little in relation to the need the farmer is asked to produce in the first six months of 1943.

THE LESSON

Most people talk about the last war as though nothing came out of it. They forget that there was time before the First World War, and that that sanguinary struggle changed their lives completely.

Debt, depression, new quarrels in place of old, broken lives, disjointed relationships, these came out of the war—but so did idealism, awakened social conscience, a broadening of knowledge, of opportunity, a self-determination of individuals.

But the real benefit from the last war was the lesson we have slowly learned, and which it has taken this war to bring home. As a man suddenly awakens to the meaning of what he studied as a child, so we as a nation are just coming to realize what we learned in the holocaust a quarter of a century ago—the lesson which if we had put its precepts into practice, might have given the world a peace lasting long enough to prove the futility of war.

We have learned that patriotism is not measured by power; that love of country thrives on oppression and a man will fight more zealously for his faith than for his possession.

We have learned that we are not the only people, that there are no Herenvolks except in their own eyes, that the aristocracy among nations consists of those who are willing to take responsibility for protecting the rights of the weak.

We have learned never again to stop a fight before it is won and not to be maudlin with those who come whining for mercy when they are losing, but who are merciless when their side is on top.

We have learned to beware those who never stand on their own actions, but who always seek scapegoats, who always have an alibi ready when they are caught.

We have learned that more powerful than "invading armies" is the power of hope for the future. We won the battle behind the lines with the Fourteen Points. That we did not win the peace was due not to the cleverness of others but to our own stupidity.

We have learned that no nation liveth unto itself alone—that because we tried to live alone, walking out on the world, we had to pass through a period of distress before we could again have a chance to help establish the kind of world in which we want to live.

A lesson came out of the last war. We have been long in learning it and our education has been costly but we can at last say, in the words of Kipling after another war, "Let us admit it fairly as a business people should. We have had no end of a lesson. It will do us no end of good."

BOOKS TO OWN

"Summary of the World Federation Plan," by Eli Culbertson. Garden City Publishing Co., 64 pp. 25c.

In this "Summary of the World Federation Plan," Eli Culbertson, gives briefly the proposals which will be described in full in his book "Total Peace," which will be published in June.

Mr. Culbertson's outline of a practical and detailed plan for world settlement has already won the applause of a variety of figures, men and women, in public life. Hamilton Holt has called Mr. Culbertson's World Federation Plan a "most concrete and comprehensive system for the world settlement" and has described it further as "a striking, original, realistic, imaginative and statesmanlike attempt to forecast and plan for the future." While Dorothy Thompson has said: "In our own age and in our own time, has been an American who has brought forward the strongest and most realistic plan for creating a world police system that will protect all in collective security and protect each even against all. It may seem remarkable that the author of this World Federation Plan, which has thus far proved impervious to the searching analysis of the most careful and realistic thinkers, should be Eli Culbertson.

But Mr. Culbertson, as it happens, has spent a lifetime studying political structures and psychological forces, and is a constructor of systems. We can no more have peace without a concrete system than we could have a United States without the Constitution."

As a recent Reader's Digest said of the author: "Whatever he has done he has tried to do better than it was ever done before, and often succeeded. He pyramided a deck of cards into a world-wide movement. When he turned to writing and told his own story, 'The Strange Lives of One Man,' the literary critic, Burton Rascoe called it 'one of the greatest autobiographies of all time; the story of a man who not only wants to make his peace with God but with man and with himself.'"

"Eli Culbertson regards the Plan here outlined as a realization of his true lifework—the attempt to make peace between man and man."

Health Notes

THE TEETH AND FOOD

"Sometime ago a man was observed in a restaurant chewing his food for a long time before swallowing it. Whether he was under the impression that by this emphasis he was saving his stomach a lot of work or there was a good reason for his practice because of some abnormal condition was not determined. In any event, he was demonstrating radically what many adults seem to have forgotten, namely, that proper mastication is an essential health procedure," states Dr. I. C. Riggan, State Health Commissioner.

"The 'quick lunch' psychology which results in gulping breakfast, speeding up the noonday meal with little chewing, and the follow through of the same procedure for supper may save some time that usually does not require saving, but saves little else; and can do some harm.

"Adequate mastication affords natural stimulation to the gums and facial muscles. In these days of soft eating even when one properly chews his food, the gums are not likely to get all the exercise necessary; however, the regular brushing of the gums as well as the teeth should keep this daily necessity in sufficient balance.

"Moreover, a sustained habit of bolting food can lead to stomach disturbances of varying degrees, and often is associated with swallowing food and liquids too hot. This latter habit in itself can, though not necessarily, result in temporary or more lasting harm to the lining of the stomach.

"If adults, however, persist in bolting their food and run the risk of paying minor or major penalties for their haste, they are only themselves to blame. Where young children are concerned, it is a very different matter. Parents have a definite obligation to train their youngsters for the proper mastication of their food. Indeed, the need for the development and maintenance in early life of adequate chewing of food is a basic one. Consequently, elders who have the future health of their children at heart will not permit them to bolt their food. In this connection, example is the best teacher.

"During a discussion of this subject sometime ago, a public health official quoted the Arab proverb: 'He who does not masticate well is an enemy of his own life,' to which the official added, 'and does not teach his children to masticate is an enemy of his children also.'"

MASS PRODUCTION OR MOB PRODUCTION?

One of the most serious problems facing war production arises from the current effort to organize foremen and other supervisory employees into unions for collective bargaining.

The foreman is the first line of management. He traditionally has been recognized as a part of management. To the employees he is the "boss." He is the man who gives the employee his instructions; who can discipline, discharge or recommend for discharge an employee under his supervisory group, who falls down on the job; who, as an executive of the supervisory group, has the authority and the responsibility to enforce, execute and assist in the determination of the detailed policies of the business.

For such a man to belong to a union would be to give him two masters. The obstacles to his continued functioning as an efficient representative of management presented by such a dual allegiance would be insurmountable. The foreman would soon find he could not serve both masters and would have to choose between the two. If his union were affiliated with the employees' union, the situation would be made more intolerable by the resulting loss of his executive control over the men. If employees, the bitter rivalries between unions would be added to the problem.

As stated by C. E. Wilson, president of General Motors, when he appeared recently before the House Military Affairs Committee in behalf of his company and the Automobile Manufacturers Association:

"In any of these situations, there would be serious turmoil and confusion in the plants. There would be endless talk and debate which are no more a substitute for action and accomplishment in industry than they are in the Army. Policies of management would not be carried out. Accurate reports of the problems and difficulties in production could not be obtained. The effectiveness of first line supervision would be lost.

"Workmen would be confused due to lack of effective leadership. More men would be required to get out a given production schedule and manpower would be wasted. War production would bog down. American industry would have to change its proven type of shop management in the midst of the war. Our important national asset of mass production might deteriorate into mob production."

It is obvious that there must be a clear definition of who is an employee for collective bargaining and who is a supervisory employee on the side of the management. Unless this clarification is achieved there will be a conflict that will hurt both our war effort and our national economy.

THE WAY BUSINESS BEGAN

The founders of this country bought maize from the Indians before they cleared off their patches of ground and raised their own corn and vegetables. Those folks knew nothing about the kind of machines that are now made by International Harvester Company, that began in a one-room blacksmith shop 112 years ago. Today it operates under a national scale and 20,000 businesses look to it either as customers or as the suppliers.

In Wilmington, Delaware, the house of duPont is the outstanding leader in the American chemical industry, a position to which it has climbed since it first made emergency powder for George Washington's soldiers.

Mass production is a creature of the past 43 years, and the automobile industry ranks as number one in the census of American manufacturers. It draws its supplies from every State in the Union and its customers, suppliers and dependents are found in every community. Steel ranks second; cotton manufacture third. There are bakeries, they rank sixth, and take the burden of making bread off the backs of millions of housewives. In running down the list of American manufacturers there is no escaping the fact that 25 great industries give employment, or furnish a way of gaining a living to more than one-fourth of all the people in United States.

So it seems perfectly natural that the government of the United States should have grabbed up all these great industries and put them out of their regular business because they alone could meet the challenges of war on short notice. And what a job they are doing!

FARMERS PLEAD NOT GUILTY

Farmers and labor groups are linked in warnings from the Administration that they are pushing the Nation toward the brink of the cliff of inflation. The farmers are defended against the critics by Senators and Representatives from the agricultural States who charge the Administration with sitting with folded hands while farm workers are being lured from the soil to industrial centers where the rewards include high wages, plus bonuses for work above 40 hours a week.

The statements from agricultural States are very critical because so many farm workers have been inducted into the military services. All the "facts and figures" show that farmers haven't had a fair break with other classes of workers and citizens in the spread of higher incomes. In fact these comparisons between farm workers and war workers don't sound like horse-sense.

POULTRY PRICE RISE DEFENDED

Supply of Better Eggs and Fowl Expected to Be Curtailed in Autumn

"Recent statements emanating from Washington that price ceilings on eggs and poultry were too high has caused much concern among poultrymen throughout this section," L. J. Graham, of Richmond, general manager of Southern States Marketing Cooperative, said this week.

"Prices being received by poultrymen today are barely above the recent floors established by the Food Distribution Administration, and premiums for finer quality eggs have been reduced to a point where many of the better poultrymen are beginning to wonder whether it is worth their while to go the trouble necessary to produce such eggs. When production is at a low ebb next fall, the Army, Navy, and civilian consumer alike will be dependent to a considerable extent upon top quality eggs stored this spring to supply their needs. Unless more encouragement is given to the farmer to maintain the fine quality which every egg has upon being laid, the supply of these eggs will be woefully short of requirements.

Expenses Increase

"Although the egg-feed ratio is relatively favorable as compared with past years, expenses other than for feed have risen so rapidly that the farmer, when compared with a wage earner, is in an unfavorable position. Farmers are not particularly interested in comparing their net income this year with that of one, two, or three years ago, but they are interested in obtaining sufficient income to meet their increased expenses and to allow them to maintain a standard of living comparable to other gainfully employed people who are not working nearly such long hours as they," Mr. Graham explained.

"In the final analysis, people must be fed, and although food prices become higher," Mr. Graham continued, "the important consideration is not price but people's ability to obtain the food necessary to promote health, permitting them to keep on the job for the important war effort. Now is the time to see that the farmer receives a return, sufficient to encourage greater production of eggs and to make it attractive for him to continue to produce in ever increasing quantities."

Equipped with new American machinery, India is producing as much gun ammunition in a month as she produced in a year prior to the war.

Military and other war needs will consume nearly twice as great a proportion of United States food supplies this year as last year.

THE OLD JUDGE SAYS...

"Sure been a great year for crops, Judge... best we've had in quite a spell."

"That's true, Henry... all over the country. As a matter of fact, there's been quite a surplus supply of grain according to some figures I saw in one of your farm papers the other day. But that surplus is being used to mighty good advantage and is making the contribution of you farmers to the war effort more important than ever. 'Here's just one example of what I mean. The beverage distilling industry alone will use 100,000,000 bushels of this surplus to make alcohol basically needed by the government for gunpowder, synthetic rubber, chemicals and medical supplies. 'So, keep it growin' Henry... you're doing a great job.'"

Theater Prevues

"SHADOW OF DOUBT," called a sensational suspense drama, will open at the Bayne Theatre, for a showing Friday and Saturday, April 2nd and 3rd. Teresa Wright, Joseph Cotten, McDonald Carey and Henry Travers are starred in the leading roles. Sensational Teresa Wright, a star of "Mrs. Minerva," is starred as a girl tortured by terror of the man she loves. The flaming longings of her lifetime frozen by horror of this man of her dreams. The superb combination of stars makes "Shadow of Doubt" a very sensational drama.

Sunday, Monday and Tuesday Abbott & Costello, Grace McDonnell, Cecil Kellaway and Eugene Pallett will be starred in "IT AINT HAY." The super-sleuths go saddle-silly and a horse and buggy drive they thought their dream-horse was a nightmare until they woke up and found the nag in bed. The comedy pair are off (in more ways than one) in the newest and funniest of all their giant joy rides. There are four new song hits thrown in.

"MARGIN FOR ERROR," starring Joan Bennett, Milton Berle, Otto Preminger and Carl Esmond, will be the attraction at the Bayne Theatre Wednesday and Thursday. Love is luscious when Joan makes it, fun is furious when Milton is in it and murder is merry when Otto is in it. "Margin for Error" takes you on a hilarious tour through the New York consulate of the Nazis, working up to a climax which is most unusual and entertaining.

At the Roland Theatre there will be a double feature each day. Friday and Saturday The Dead End Kids and Little Tough Guys will be featured in "KEEP EM SLUGGIN'." Also, "AT THE FRONT IN NORTH AFRICA."

Sunday and Monday the Ritz Brothers and Jane Frazee will be co-starred in "HI YA CHUM." This is a new comedy-musical, starring one of Hollywood's foremost comedy trios. The story is a mirthful combat between a law-abiding restaurant and a crooked gambling establishment in a western boom town. The Ritz Brothers with two glamorous entertainers portrayed by the Misses Frazee and Clyde, find themselves projected into this hectic situation. The methods by which they become involved in the ultimate victory of good over evil are declared to be boltersiously comical. Hopalong Cassidy in "LOST CANYON," will be the added attraction.

Tuesday, Wednesday and Thursday will be seen "NO PLACE FOR A LADY," starring William Gargan and Margaret Lindsey, also "THE BLOCKED TRAIL." "No place for a Lady" is a thrilling new mystery picture in which gun-fire shatters the infamous black market in rubber tires and a private detective and his fiancée stumble upon a murder in a lonely beach house on the California coast.

Major and Mrs. F. M. Brooke, Jr., are occupying the Kerr Cottage on Avenue E.

Mr. and Mrs. John Russell, of Richmond, are occupying the Hix Cottage on 98th Street.

Lt. and Mrs. Graham Wood, Jr. are occupying the Bennett Cottage on 55th Street.

BRAFORD BAND AT USO DANCE

Featured Musicians Will Appear for Saturday Night May Day Festivities

Robert Alward, first trumpet player with the Camp Bradford Amphibious Base Band, will be the featured soloist when that band plays for the formal May day dance at the Virginia Beach USO Club on Saturday.

Alward, a native of North Liberty, Ind., has been playing with the Amphibious Base Band since last October. He has played trumpet for 12 years, since he was 8 years old. He studied with Fred Waters, well-known band music composer, who wrote the I. B. A. March, and at the Midland School of Art, an all-colored school under the direction of Oscar Jones. He has played with a military school band, with Morris E. Sachs orchestra over WENR in Chicago, and WBBT in South Bend, Ind. He disbanded his own dance orchestra to enter service more than a year ago. On Easter Sunday he played the "Holy City" at two church services at Camp Bradford.

Other Featured Players Another featured player with the Amphibious Base Band is Martin Douglas, of Marion, Ind. He has been playing the base fiddle since he was 6 years old. He belongs to the well-known Local 10 of the Musicians Union of Chicago, and has played with several prominent orchestras, including Dell Courtney's.

Eddie (Slim) Vollmar, the tenor saxophone player is another member of Local 10 who played with Courtney's Orchestra. He arranges music for the Amphibious Base Band, and like most of the other players of the Band, has seen foreign service.

Neil Rudder, of Glenn Dale, Cal., and first trombone player, left the Minneapolis Symphony Orchestra to enter the armed forces.

The members of the Red Cross Canteen will serve the open house program at the USO Club on Sunday.

To Hasten Victory

No American wants this war to go on minute beyond the time we can bring it to a victorious end. To hasten that victory—to save possibly the lives of millions of our boys on our far flung fronts—it is imperative that every American do his part in the Second War Loan. There is an investment to fit every purse. The most you can do is little enough compared with the sacrifice made by our boys in service. They give their lives—you lend your money.

American golfers are urged by their national association to explore the possibilities of using parts of golf courses for Victory Gardens, without digging up valuable turf of fairways, greens, or tees.

WASTE IS EVIL

set up as the fair way to assure every citizen of his share of meats.

It is up to the average housewife to help stop the black market menace. She must realize that she endangers herself, her family, her friends, and the men in the armed forces when she patronizes an illegal market. Every pound of meat stolen from the normal civilian supply is stolen from some man or woman who is helping to win the war.

Here's How to Tell

You may not realize that you are trading at a black market. Here are some suggestions on how they may be detected; although the existence of any of these circumstances is not conclusive proof that the operations are illegal:

1. If the prices are higher than the maximums fixed by the Office of Price Administration. Ceiling prices must be posted in every store and market.
2. If the operator refuses to divulge ceiling prices.
3. If a price "premium" above the ceiling for a particular grade of meat required for any cut.
4. If meat can be bought without ration stamps.
5. If meat can be bought without paying the full number of ration stamps per pound.
6. If meat declared to be "likely to spoil," and therefore offered for sale at reduced point values, is not reduced in monetary price.
7. If the meat operator, upon request of the purchaser, refuses to show the slaughterer's stamp upon wholesale cuts of meat.

A single night raid of 1,000 bombers over the Rhineland calls for $375,000 worth of gasoline plus a million dollars for bombs dropped, and an average of 11 million dollars as the cost of planes lost through enemy action.

Food is so scarce in China that it is not rationed among civilians.

ACTUAL

small seeds, a rake or hoe or garden cultivator may be used. Many gardeners open up the rows with the horse and plow immediately after harrowing for potatoes, corn and some of the larger crops.

Much has been written about the depth of planting seed. No hard and fast rules can be given. A general rule is to plant the seed to a depth approximately four times its diameter. Common sense, however, will temper this rule. Seed should be sown more shallow in early spring than in summer. In early spring, the ground is cool and the seed needs the sun's warmth to germinate. Seed may be planted deeper in good loamy land soils than in hard clay. Young plants often find it difficult to push through the clay. Practice and common sense should guide the gardener in this respect. Lightly firming the soil, particularly over small seed, will bring the soil particles in contact with the seed and will help supply moisture to the seed germination. Firming the soil around the roots of young transplanted plants is particularly important.

In general, it is not advisable to plant in ridges. This may be advisable, however, in heavy or poorly drained soils or where the garden is located on a severe slope, and there is danger of washing. Here again, common sense and experience should determine the practice.

Planting, of course, is a continuous process. The whole garden is not planted at once. Plantings of other vegetables or successive plantings of the same vegetable will need to be made. A few warm days will bring the first plantings up and bring you to the next step in gardening—that of cultivation. Cultivation will not be discussed at this time except to state that cultivation should begin early, just as soon as the vegetables are up and the weeds begin to grow. The time to kill weeds is when they are small, before they have had time to rob the vegetables of needed food and moisture. The first cultivations you make are probably the most important of all.

If every man, woman and child in the United States buys and uses $100 the aggregate will be about $13,000,000,000 or the amount the Treasury must raise in its Second War Loan.

times of national crises, and could be counted on to make its contribution to the present war effort. Hundreds of boys already have gone into the Army and Navy from this county, he said, willing to give their lives for their country; their people on the home front will not be remiss in their duty. The Congressman was introduced by Mr. Kellam, who presided over the meeting and outlines the part the county has played this far in meeting the Treasury Department's goals.

A feature of the rally was the account of a North Atlantic convoy crossing to a Russian port given by Lieut. Tipping, in charge of an armed guard unit on one of the merchant vessels. Lieut. Tipping's ship was sunk by enemy torpedoes before their goal was reached, and he and his shipmates spent hours in the icy water before they were picked up by one of the convoy's escort ships. "Leave-and shipments," he said, "depend on the sale of bonds on the home front. These must be bigger and bigger and furnished with more adequate protection if we hope to win the war in the near future." Spokesmen for the county committee were optimistic that a minimum response of $250,000.00 would be credited to Princess Anne when the final report on the Second War Loan drive is made.

FARM ACTIVITY

confirms last week's report that there will be only a light crop of peaches and pears in the State and very few plums and cherries. Frost and freeze damage to apples in the commercial area apparently was not serious except to Delicious and some varieties of minor importance. Tobacco plant beds were reported to be in fair to good condition.

Farm activities throughout the State varied rather widely. Some farmers in the Western part of the State had to limit their work to feeding livestock, fixing fences, cutting wood and other wet and cold weather jobs. In Northampton County and around Newport News tomato plants were being set. Soybeans and snap beans were being planted in Accomac County. Corn planting was an important farm activity in the Southeastern counties, with a little cotton reported planted in Southampton County. By the weekend farmers here and there throughout the area east of the Blue Ridge had started planting corn, including a few in Loudoun County. Spring oats, grass and clover were still being seeded in the Western half of the State. Plowing and preparing land for planting corn and other crops was general throughout the State.

The Milwaukee Railroad has offered its 35,000 employees the use of suitable vacant land for Victory Gardens.
